Study Shows 30% Marin Traffic Rise With 3rd Span

By RANDALL GOULD

Vehicular traffic between Marin County and San Francisco will be 30 per cent greater with a third bridge by the year 1980 than without it, concludes a state trans-bay traffic study released today by the Division of San Francisco Bay Toll Crossings.

The study finds that if no new facility is provided, trans-bay traffic in and out of Marin County by 1980 will total about 38 million vehicles yearly.

But with a third bridge opened to traffic by 1971, estimated total 1980 traffic would be 50,545,000.

Total possible ultimate traffic with three bridges would be 75 million on a basis of an annual capacity of 25 million vehicles for each. It is noted that the Golden Gate Bridge is expected to reach this top load by 1967. After this, traffic on the Richmond - San Rafael Bridge "would increase due to congestion on the Golden Gate Bridge." The report amplifies:

"If a new crossing to Marin County were not constructed, it is estimated that by 1980 there would be an excess of 3.4 million vehicles per year which would prefer to use the Golden Gate Bridge, but would not be able to do so because of capacity limitations.

"Motorists traveling between Marin County and the Peninsula are assumed to use an alternate route employing both the Richmond-San Rafael and San Mateo-Hayward Bridges. This circuitous route represents an economic loss to the traveling public and indicates severe congestion on the Golden Gate Bridge."

Prefacing the report is a letter from N. C. Raab, projects engineer and chief of division, to Robert B. Brandford, state director of public works, recalling how the original $500,000 study of a possible San Francisco-Tiburon bridge had to be called off because of popular uprising.

The old Shasta County Courthouse tower has been pulled from the perch it has occupied since 1889 when the courthouse was built. The old building is being demolished to make way for a new $900,000 annex to the present new courthouse. The tower was pulled from the roof by a cable hooked to a drum crane. Quentin Cult Death Inquest Is Set Tonight

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety said today he will call 12 witnesses tonight in an inquest in the death of a San Quentin Prison "Black Muslim" who was shot during an inter-racial clash in a prison exercise yard Feb. 25.

Testimony about the shooting of Booker T. Johnson, 27, will be given by four inmates, seven prison personnel and Dr. Robert S. Schneider, the pathologist for the autopsy. The inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Judge N. Charles Brusatori's courtroom.

15 CALLED

Asst. Coroner William Bradley said 15 jurors have been called.

Warden Fred R. Dickson said last week following investigation by prison officials and Garety's office that Johnson's death was accidental. Guard Fred L. Bortfeld told investigators he fired a warning shot to halt fighting in the yard, and that Johnson ran, stumbled, fell or was pushed into the line of fire.

The death of Johnson, reportedly a "minister" of the Muslim cult at San Quentin, sparked a brief, non-violent "no work" revolt by 59 cultists. Later in the day Garety talked with cult spokesmen, who hinted they might have evidence to give about Johnson's death.

Garety said today, however, that he has heard nothing further from the Muslims.

CULT MEMBER

One of the inmate witnesses will be James Smith, 22, a cult member who had joined Johnson in assaulting white inmates in the adjustment center exercise yard. Smith refused to speak directly to investigators, answering only through a Negro guard.

Other inmates called to testify are William A. Duett, Robert Gillette and Billy Gene Cook, who Garety indicated were on the scene of the shooting.

Witnesses from the prison staff include Bortfeld, Lt. W. R. Stevenson, R. L. Beavin, Jesse R. Phillips, Sgt. R. W. Jimerson and J. Cry, all correctional officers, and G. M. Tanaka, a correctional counselor.

Garety predicted the testimony would take three or four hours.

Suit By Keaton Looms Over Fees

Auditor Michael Mitchell told county supervisors today that he is unable to pay further fees to Frank J. Keaton as public administrator, and that Keaton probably will file suit to collect fees in cases which he took before the end of last year.

Mitchell pointed out that Keaton went on a salary basis as coroner-public administrator last Jan. 1, since which time he has drawn $735 monthly in lieu of former fees.

At stake, said Mitchell are fees from 16 estates taken by Keaton before Jan. 1 and entailing eventual fees of about $4,500.

Acting Chairman William D. Fusselman at once supported Keaton's position, declaring that in setting up the salary basis it was not the board's intention to penalize Keaton for work done before the salary went into effect.

Support for this position was given by the other two supervisors present, George Ludy and William Gnoss. Peter Behr, in the past critical of Keaton's former situation, is in the East this week and Chairman Walter R. Castro is resting after a heart attack.

Called before the board, Asst. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney substantiated Mitchell's statement that under the ordinance as drawn the auditor cannot issue warrants for further fees. He further said that it would not be any simple manner to revise the ordinance since this would constitute retroactive alteration in the compensation of an elected official.

He said there might be an easier way if the board wished to approve a plan for dividing the amounts to be paid, providing for pro rata division of such amounts to give Keaton pay for whatever he had done on cases before Jan 1.

This has already been discussed tentatively with Keaton, Maloney said, and he offered to go into Keaton's views further. It appears likely that some court decision might be required to give the supervisors power to arrange a settlement.

$1,000 License Asked In Sale Of Red Goods

FOUNTAIN VALLEY (UPI) — The city council of this Los Angeles County rural community last night passed an ordinance requiring merchants to buy a $1,000 license if they want to sell goods imported from Communist nations.

In addition, the ordinance demands that the merchant stocking wares from communist countries post signs with letters six inches high reading:

"This place of business sells merchandise, wares or goods produced in communist countries."

There are only two retail businesses—a general store and service station—in this city of 2,500. But the five-member council said it was anticipating future growth.

The council also approved an ordinance providing for automatic dismissal of any city official or employee who "initiates . . . introduction of a labor union in any way into any organization or department of the city."

Nazi Criminal Being Returned

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Nazi war criminal Reinhold Vorberg was handed over today to German police agents who took him to West Germany where he will answer charges for the mass murder of more than 100,000 mentally-retarded prisonsr during Adolf Hitler's rule.

The Spanish government agreed to an extradition request filed by West German authorities.

Architectural Controls Urged For Sausalito

San Francisco's Jack Tar hotel was cited last night by Sausalito City Councilman Michael Harris as an example of the need for architectural control, as the council continued its discussion of a proposed new zoning ordinance.

The reference came up during a discussion of whether the opinions of an architectural committee should be mandatory. Councilman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. disliked the idea.

"I would be troubled by the application of mandatory architectural control," said Ehrlich. He suggested trying first "voluntary exposure."

George Mader of William Spangle and Associates, the firm which is rewriting the city zoning ordinance, pointed out that approval by the architectural committee would be a condition for issuance of a building permit. But he said the control might be applied more to landscape and building arrangement than to building design.

Mayor Paul Micou, also favoring restraint in controlling design, said he would want it only on those buildings "which would have a major impact on the community."

Harris said he thought it should be up to the planning commission and council to take action on building designs, but that they should have the committee to turn to for opinions. But then he added:

"I would have liked to see somebody intervene in the Jack Tar Hotel."

Councilman Jan Paul Dyk said that in case someone wanted to build a building "green with purple stripes" the city should have somebody to say "no," but yet not tell the builder what color to make it.

On other points, the councilmen favored a streamlined handling of use permits so that each permit does not have to

Brown Voices Strong Statement Against Highway User Tax Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown just about doomed a proposed increase in highway user taxes today.

In his strongest statement yet on the subject, Brown said "I am against any new taxes of any kind, nature or description."

He was asked, at his news conference, about a bill by Sen. Randolph Collier (D-Yreka) providing a 60-million-dollar boost in gasoline taxes and motorist fees to finance city street and county road improvements.

The governor said he would take a long hard look at the measure, if it reaches his desk, and give it a fair hearing. Then he added, with emphasis:

"I made a pledge to the people" against any new taxes "and I mean to keep it."

On other matters, Brown had this to say:

Braden — He predicted the Senate will confirm the reappointment of Thomas W. Braden of Oceanside to the State Board of Education.

Casey—The governor defended the recent promotion of his son-in-law, Charles Casey, to the $12,696 a year job as assistant state director of corrections.

He said Casey was well qualified for his job—liaison officer working with law enforcement authorities—and "I can assure you this fine, able young man is earning his money."

Bonds—Brown said he supports the use of 325 million dollars in revenue bonds, authorized 30 years ago for the Central Valley Project, to help finance the California Water Project.

Reorganization—Said he favors creation of a new Executive Office of the Governor but that he wasn't certain he would press for it this year in the face of potent opposition.

Under the plan, the housekeeping functions of the Department of Finance would be split off into a General Services Department. Budget-making would be shifted to the new Executive Office. Brown said this would place responsibility closer to the governor.

Urban—Announced that bills to carry out his urban policy program would be introduced in the Senate and Assembly today. They're intended to provide for urban planning and for a closer state check on annexations and incorporations.

SUPERVISORS VOTE FOR TAX BOOST

Marin County supervisors today voted support of a proposed one-cent boost in the state gasoline tax to benefit county and city highways.

In anticipation of this action, asst. public works director Arthur T. Knutson was in Sacramento today to advise a senate committee of the supervisors' view.

The board was informed that if this raise went into effect it should provide an additional 250 million dollars for road purposes within the next 10 years.

Hub Shows Interest In 43-Acre Plan

Plans for a 43-acre planned unit development, 12 acres of which are inside the city limits of San Anselmo, were presented to the San Anselmo Planning Commission last night.

Jack Hill of the George S. Nolte engineering firm, representing the Del May Investment Corp. of San Rafael, said it would be an "extremely expensive development."

Hill said no detailed plans or cost estimate had been drawn up, pending presentation of the idea to the planning commission. The commission decided to recommend to the council that it had "expressed interest" in the plan.

The proposed development borders on the Alameda and extends 1,100 feet into the county on the northeast side of San Anselmo. Hill said the developers were "interested" in annexation.

Single family residences would be included in the development, along with two, three and four-unit apartments, according to Hill. He said, "This is not a formal presentation. It was just to find out the attitude of the commission."

The commission also approved rezoning for San Anselmo Avenue between Center Boulevard and Oak Knoll Avenue which would permit the request by Kahn and Marchant to subdivide property at Fern Lane and San Anselmo Avenue.

Most of the area was rezoned for apartments. Commercial zoning was retained on the northwest and northeast corners of Center Boulevard and San Anselmo Avenue.

In Cuba It's Russians, Guns

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Reporters and cameramen from the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. have returned from Cuba, where they filmed a report for the Canadian network's program "CBC Magazine." Here are the impressions of one of the group, the network's Washington correspondent.)

By KNOWLTON NASH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the most striking impressions you get in Cuba are that there are so many guns and so many Russians.

Almost half of the people carry machine guns, rifles or pistols. To a Canadian, it seems a little unusual to be greeted by a hotel doorman carrying a Czechoslovak burp gun or by a pistol-packing room clerk. Militia boys and girls, some as young as 15, carry guns. One young militia girl I saw was carrying a rifle almost bigger than she was.

I went to a Russian motion picture one evening and noticed that many boys and girls out on dates at the movies lugged along their guns — a somewhat incongruous sight as they held hands with one hand and carried their guns with the other.

While initially at least there is a measure of alarm at the sight of so many guns, you get a feeling of some frustration at the sight of so many Russians. Cubans young and old constantly mistook us for Russians, apparently believing any fair-haired person is a Soviet citizen.

While I saw literally hundreds of Russians dressed in civilian clothes wandering about Havana or jammed in the back of trucks rushing out to factories, I saw very few Chinese. The Chinese I did see were by far the most properly dressed of anybody in Cuba, even wearing ties, something the Russians and Cubans generally do not do.

Food is very short in Cuba, although nobody is starving, and it is expensive in restaurants. Elderly chicken and stringy pork are the main dishes, along with rice. Outside Havana, the food is rather less appetizing.

The Cubans are on tight rations: One chicken a month, one-eighth of a pound of butter a month and five eggs a month, if you can get them. Outside of some diplomatic meals, I did not see an egg or a pat of butter in two weeks in Cuba.

We were in Cuba at the height of the sugar cane cutting season and the government had launched a nationwide campaign for volunteer cutters. The No. 2 man in Cuba, economic czar Ernesto Guevara, spent two weeks cutting cane himself in Camaguey Province.

It was in the cane fields that I interviewed him. With his black beard, chomping a cigar and packing what he called a "machine-gun" pistol, he gave the interview beside a cane-cutting machine. His pistol, I was told, fires 20 shots and he carries five 20-shot refills. The interview was conducted in a semicircle of his guards, all carrying machine guns, rifles, pistols and machetes.

El Commandante Guevara was only too glad to answer any question and this seemed to be the attitude of the Cuban people themselves wherever we went. Those who support the Castro government are enormously proud of their guns, their communism and the houses and hospitals they have built.

Those who oppose Castro are equally anxious to talk, but only when you are out of earshot of any intelligence operatives or microphones.

What Retailers Think Of Sunday Bill

By JERRY RANKIN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Whether you should be able to buy a car, dress, sofa, radio or wristwatch on Sunday is stirring up debate in the Capitol in the wake of a renewed drive to close many businesses now open on Sunday.

Reactions of retailers around the state show nothing surprising. Those open on Sunday say they do it as a convenience for family shopping or because they must since their competitors sell on Sunday. Most of them oppose a Sunday closing law.

Those who don't sell on Sunday generally favor such legislation, contending that six days is time enough in which to shop and employees deserve a definite day set aside for rest.

The measure introduced yesterday by Sen. Joseph A. Rattigan (D-Santa Rosa) would halt Sunday sales of automobiles, clothing, furniture, appliances, television sets, cameras, jewelry and other "nonessential" goods.

It would apply to stores in or within 10 miles of cities over 5,000 population.

Exempt from the law would be drugs, gasoline, auto supplies, newspapers, food, real estate, souvenirs and "recreational items.

Discount stores are dead set against anything which would curtail their highly profitable Sunday sales. They note Sunday is one of their biggest sales days and claim they do the public a service by opening on Sunday when families can shop together.

Alfred Wade, manager of the open-Sunday GET discount store in San Francisco, says he is "100 per cent against a Sunday closing law."

Dan Boyd, general manager of United Shoppers Exclusive in San Francisco, points out "Sunday is the big day of the week for us. Families have to be together when they make a planned purchase of any size. Saturday and Sunday are the only two days they have together, generally."

A Fresno discount store executive feels big department stores now closed on Sunday are behind the Rattigan measure. Proponents of the closing law contend that the department stores may be forced to open on Sunday if the sales boom at discount stores continues.

G. F. von Mueffling, general manager of Fedce discount stores in the Los Angeles area, is confident the bill will "never go through. I say this, even though I would prefer not to have to stay open Sunday. Good help likes to spend Sunday at home with their families. Actually, I haven't seen any stores so crowded they couldn't take care of all their business in six days.

Most car dealers appear to oppose Sunday selling — but many remain open "because the other guy does."

A sampling in Fresno shows that most car dealers are in business on Sunday, but would welcome the chance to shut up shop that day. One warns, however, that ALL must close — "It must be all the way or not at all."

The Northern and Southern California Motor Car Dealers associations backed a Sunday closing which failed to get anywhere in 1961, and they presumably will do so again.

Rockefeller Declares Kennedy Too Late On Rights Promises

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller sailed into President John F. Kennedy's new civil rights program today, claiming that it ignored major campaign promises and came "two years too late."

The Republican governor, an undeclared candidate for next year's Republican presidential nomination, was sharply critical in his first comment on the proposals Kennedy sent to congress last week.

Rockefeller chose as his forum a rally sponsored by the New York State conference of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

In his prepared remarks, he said the Kennedy program was "a step in the right direction" but complained that it covered only five of 28 legislative recommendations of the federal Civil Rights Commission.

Kennedy's major proposals were designed to reinforce the Negro's right to vote and to attend desegregated schools. He also asked for an extension by at least four years of the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

Rockefeller said that, while Kennedy promised during the 1960 campaign to enact the Democratic civil rights platform as a first order of business, his proposals "ignore three of his most important campaign promises, and they are two years too late."

Rockefeller cited Democratic platform promises to set up a fair employment practices commission, to empower the attorney general to file civil injunction suits to prevent discrimination, and to make the Civil Rights Commission a permanent agency.

By contrast, he said, Republicans have introduced legislation in Congress to carry out both the Democratic and Republican civil rights platforms.

"Thus it is plain," he said, "that there is constant Republican pressure for action and no dearth of opportunity for the heavy democratic majorities—if the necessary leadership were forthcoming."

Stalin's Death Anniversary Almost Ignored

10 Years Have Passed Since Dictator Died

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in grim, uneasy fashion, today marked the end of its first decade since dictator Josef Stalin died in the Kremlin.

In former days, the occasion would have brought forth ceremonies and tributes. But today, with Stalin discredited by his successors, there was silence or abuse.

The only recognition of the former leader was expected to be the usual file of curious visitors past Stalin's grave alongside the Kremlin wall.

PLACE OF HONOR

The man who ruled Russia with an iron hand for more than a quarter of a century still lies buried in a place of honor. But his memory has been daubed with blood and vilification in a massive campaign of de-Stalinization carried out by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the current Communist hierarchy.

So low has Stalin been downgraded that all official mention of today's anniversary date has been removed from Soviet calendars.

The Soviet morning newspapers made no mention of Stalin, or indicated in any way that today was the anniversary of his death.

The usual line of Russians shuffled two-by-two past the Red Square mausoleum within a few feet of Stalin's simple grave, but few of them questioned by newsmen were aware of the anniversary.

"That's right," a mechanic said when reporters reminded him of the occasion. "I had forgotten."

'MORE FORGOTTEN'

"Already 10 years," a middle-aged teacher said. "It goes fast. The nation has become more powerful. Life has become better. The country has been given to the people."

One woman said she had forgotten the anniversary date even though she had been in a Stalin prison camp.

"Step by step he will become even more forgotten," she said. "But he had not only this country, but the whole world hypnotized when he was alive. Even in the prison camps, though the people hated him, they cried when they learned when he died. There was more fear than happiness. We just didn't know what would become of us without Stalin."

The de-Stalinization campaign has been extended through the Communist bloc except for Red China and Albania, which still honor Stalin's name. Red China and Albania adhere to Stalin's "hard line" Communist policies as opposed to Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence.

'JFK Misled On Cuba'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield today challenged republican contentions that President John F. Kennedy has misled the public and has denied congressional leaders intelligence information on Cuba.

Hundreds of persons from four states—Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Pennsylvania—have been forced from their homes by floodwaters after drenching rains and melting snows.

More rain splashed across wide areas in the flood-stricken areas. Rain also continued in many other parts of the eastern half of the nation, with more snow in Northern and Western sections.

Ohio reported the state's worst flood conditions in four years. Hundreds of persons were evacuated from their homes, and scores of families were marooned. With more rain predicted, the Weather Bureau in Cincinnati said the Ohio River appeared likely to be bankfull along its 981-mile route.

Miners Still Striking

PARIS (AP) — The bulk of France's 200,000 coal miners flouted President Charles de Gaulle's orders to return to work today and continued their strike for higher wages.

Reports from the government-owned mines and union officials said that between 90 and 95 per cent of the miners in the vast northern France fields and in the Lorraine district of eastern France still refused to work.

School Supply Costs Revealed

The Marin County Board of Education learned last night who had won contracts for more than $100,000 worth of school supplies which the board awarded last month sight unseen.

Asst. Supt. Rudolph S. Kupfer reported contracts for paper supplies went to Blake, Moffitt and Towne, $27,516.51, and Acme Paper Company of San Francisco, $3,142.75. These were low, he said, among 10 bidders. None of the three firms which had the contract last year was among the successful bidders.

The contract for school supplies, $81,551.39 worth, went to one supplier, American Seating Company of San Francisco. Although there were seven bidders, Kupfer said his figures showed that American Seating's bid, assisted by an additional discount if the firm got the whole contract, was lower than any other combination of qualified bidders.

American Seating was one of several bidders last year.

Kupfer said the prices this year were "generally lower" than they had been a year ago.

Walter L. Johnson, who reported to his fellow board members on the bids, warned that suppliers who had not bid low had been going to school districts and offering to sell at the low bidder's price. He declared if this were allowed to continue it would eliminate the effectiveness of the bidding procedure, making it a mere price-fixing device rather than a contractual process.

The board agreed that Supt. Virgil S. Hollis should write a letter to the various school districts explaining what was happening and asking the districts' cooperation in "encouraging good business practices."

The County Board Of Education Also:

1. Heard a report on school district organization from Edwin L. Blackmore in which he predicted that Marin County will succeed in establishing a district master plan by the state's deadline of Sept. 15. He said he saw little difficulty in establishing a junior college master plan during 1964.

2. Was told that various school districts in Marin County are handling library book selection differently if they do not belong to the county's library service.

3. Approved a system of payroll deductions for school pay checks providing deductions do not exceed seven in number and the board of supervisors also approves the system.

4. Voted to expand summer school for the deaf and hard of hearing this year to include the orthopedically handicapped, providing a minimum number of children enroll and their parents guarantee they will attend for the full six-week course.

5. Set special meetings for March 19 and June 11 to go into budget details.

6. Voted to purchase, with approval of the supervisors, a seven-passenger station wagon to replace a volkswagen bus now being loaned by the Marin Assn. for retarded children.

7. Decided to vote next meeting on whether to appoint present board members or newly elected board members to vacancies on the board for the months of May and June caused by changes in state law four years ago. But they strongly indicated they would appoint the present board members.

8. Received copies of mimeographed first readers developed by the San Quentin Prison teaching staff for teaching reading to inmates.

Pleads Innocent To Escape Charge

Bruce Evan Stockwell, 25, a Marin County jail trusty who walked out of jail for more than three weeks of freedom, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of escape.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court set March 27 as the time for a preliminary hearing.

Stockwell disappeared from jail on Feb. 3 and was caught in Concord in a stolen car on Feb. 27.

One Item On Agenda Of Novato Council

The council will meet with representatives of the State Cooperative Personnel Services relative to a classification and pay survey for city personnel.

Highway Service Road Name Change Bogs

Hopes of Alto Fire Department to end a confusion of names of the east service road along Highway 101 at Alto mired down before the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday.

The single road is variously known as Redwood Highway Frontage Road, Strawberry Service Road and (in a small section running into main Tiburon Boulevard) as Tiburon Boulevard.

After discussion it was decided to delay any change to March 18.

Planning Director B. D. Dobbs suggested leaving the designation "Redwood Highway" for the service road to the west from Alto south to Richardson Bay Bridge.

But Robin D. McCrea of Belvedere recalled past troubles with that.

McCrea built an apartment house beside the frontage road.

At first, he said, he was told to consider his building "990 Redwood Highway." After occupants printed up stationery and had the address well on record, they were told three months later to change this to "30 Tiburon Boulevard."

"If this is now going to be changed again it will make more trouble," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis von Neumann of Mill Valley said they built in the same locality, accepting the Tiburon Boulevard address as final.

Commissioner Felix M. Warburg thought the whole eastern service road north and south of Alto might be called something like "Alto Road" or "Alto Boulevard."

Chairman William Upton conceded that a little more thought might be in order.

New McAteer Aide Named

John Delury of San Francisco, a former teacher at Marin Catholic High School, has been named administrative assistant to State Sen. J. Eugene McAteer of San Francisco.

He replaces Leon McCarthy, who said yesterday that he will be a candidate for the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in November.

Delury, 31, has held executive posts with the City and State Fair Employment Practices Commissions.

Rice, the staple of the Asian diet, is the principal daily food for more of the world's peoples than any other food crop.

Preacher Gets Fine For Drunken Driving

Frank Smith Sr., 66, a Vallejo preacher, drew $110 fine and six months probation yesterday for drunken driving in San Rafael.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Smith for driving while intoxicated along Rafael Drive last Oct. 28. For the next 90 days, Smith may drive only for work.

Larkspur Board To Meet Thursday

The Larkspur school district board will meet in the district office, Larkspur, Thursday because of inability to raise a quorum for the next regular meeting night of March 12, Supt. Milton S. Cohen announced today.

Trustees will be given a report showing that the district would be unable to meet expenses without passage of a school district tax increase June 4, said Cohen. Architect Burton Rockwell will review building plans and report on current construction.

Fairfax School Bond Issue Due Discussion

Fairfax School District board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. today to consider a bond issue which would finance three additional classrooms and acquire a site for a seventh and eighth grade school.

The only other item on the agenda is selection of a replacement for Joy Cowan, fifth grade teacher at Manor School.

San Jose School Unit Joins Study

Trustees of the San Jose School District last night decided to join in a proposed study of unification involving four other school districts.

The action was taken on motion of Alan W. Swabacker after trustees spent a good portion of the evening questioning Edward Anderson of the consultant firm of Booz-Allen and Hamilton, which would conduct the study.

The other districts are Novato, Dixie and both San Rafael districts. Swabacker's motion to participate was contingent on participation of the other districts. Dixie and Novato trustees have already agreed to participate.

The San Jose board voted 3-0 in favor of the motion. Trustees James A. Swenson and William H. Vandergriff were absent.

In other action last night, trustees learned that additions on San Jose Intermediate School will be completed early in November and additions on Loma Verde School will be ready Dec. 1.

Trustees asked Supt. Ralph Giovanniello to investigate plans to alleviate crowding in first and fifth grade enrollment. Trustees accepted the resignation of Mrs. Kay German, secretary at Meadow Park School, who resigned because of personal reasons.

PROMOTION — Roger W. Smith of San Jose, deputy commander of the Sixth Air Force Reserve Region at Hamilton Air Force Base, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general. Smith is the owner of a real estate consultant firm.

PLANS

be referred to the council for action.

Mader outlined the nine proposed zones, or use districts, ranging from single family residential to public districts. An "apartment-commercial waterfront" district was included especially to meet the needs of the Marinship area.

Mader also listed "combining" districts, which allow density variations according to terrain and particular character of the area. Residential densities would range from a minimum of 1,500 square feet of lot area per dwelling unit in the apartment zone to 20,000 or more square feet for large lot single family dwellings.

Such things as churches, schools, clubs and recreational facilities would be conditional uses in residential areas, but Mader said the conditions under which permits may be granted should be spelled out. The council decided to include nursery schools among the conditional uses.

The council opposed inclusion of hospitals, sanitoriums and "philanthropic and charitable" institutions among conditional uses for residential areas.

At the March 25 meeting the council will take up non-residential zones. Mader said open areas, public and waterfront commercial zones probably will be the most controversial.

Dog Foams At Mouth, In Custody

An Irish setter which was "foaming at the mouth" and occasionally running in circle kept some residents of San Jose Boulevard in Novato on edge until 11:45 a.m. today when the dog was taken into custody, apparently without any trouble, by two men from the Marin Humane Society.

"I doubt that the dog is mad," Society Supt. Charles Light said. The dog will be kept in custody for observation, he said, just to make sure.

Novato police received two calls regarding the dog. After a report at 8 a.m., policemen cornered the dog, trying to keep it under observation until Humane Society men could get on the scene. But the dog ran and eluded police.

At 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Clarence W. Sampson, 750 San Jose Boulevard, saw the dog playing with two neighborhood children. She noticed that the animal was foaming at the mouth. She called police and alerted the neighbor.

Mrs. William Berger, 752 San Jose Boulevard, said she was "scared to death" when Mrs. Sampson told her about the dog. She took her daughter, Pam, 3, and Robin Johansen, 2, into the house. She was baby sitting the Johansen child.

The setter, reportedly wearing a collar and dog tags, ran to the Bergers' back yard where it played with the Bergers' puppy until the men from the Humane Society picked the setter up. Neither her puppy nor the children had any bite marks, Mrs. Berger said.

Corte Madera Road Work Is Sought

All 20 families living in the 100 block of Buena Vista Avenue asked the Corte Madera Town Council last night to improve the street, contending delivery trucks often cannot drive by without getting residents to remove parked cars.

They asked that the street be widened with curbs on both sides.

The council directed that the matter be discussed at budget time.

Marin City Bus Depot Fate To Be Decided

Marin City's Greyhound bus depot may either be closed for four months or moved to a nearby site within 30 days to enable realignment of Drake Avenue to tie in with Donohue Avenue.

Marin County Redevelopment Agency commissioners will hold a special meeting Monday at 3:30 p.m. in Marin City to make the decision. The depot, a major transfer point in the county, and adjacent depot cafe are slated for removal among four buildings which contain 24 families.

The families, according to Executive Director Bert Klahn, are to be juggled around within the project, some of them going into quarters where other families will leave to move into one of the new "pole houses." The four buildings are on the site committed to the Presbyterian Church.

Removal of the buildings by Cecotti and Sons is to start within 30 days.

Also to be considered at the special meeting will be bids received today on the fourth series of preliminary loan notes amounting to $1,880,000, a portion of the total financing of the urban renewal.

Bank of America was low bidder with an interest rate of 1.49 per cent, Klahn said.

Iva Falls Asleep In Court; Lawyer Fears She's Drugged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Snoring loudly, Iva Kroeger was carried in her chair by bailiffs from the courtroom of her double murder trial today.

Her attorney expressed fear she had been drugged.

For 20 minutes, wet towels were applied to the 44-year-old grandmother, accused with her husband, Ralph, of strangling a couple and burying them in the Kroeger basement.

She didn't revive.

Then she was taken up to the jail hospital ward and the jail physician, Dr. William Ashley, was summoned.

The judge recessed the trial's morning session.

Francis W. Mayer, assistant district attorney, was giving the closing arguments. Yesterday Mrs. Kroeger interrupted Mayer more than 100 times.

Today she was contrastingly quiet, often yawning.

Just as Mayer was describing her as a "cruel, vengeful woman" the defense attorney, Emmet Hagerty interrupted and pointed to Mrs. Kroeger. Her head was on the table cradled in her left arm.

Mrs. Kroeger's interruptions yesterday were continued despite a stern scolding by the judge.

At one point in the prosecution summation, while Mayer halted his talk for 14 minutes, Mrs. Kroeger was warned by Superior Court Judge Harry J. Neubarth:

"I'm going to take drastic measures unless you stop talking," he said.

"You've already taken drastic measures," retorted the undaunted Iva.

Detachment Of Retinas Studied In Collie Dogs

STANFORD (UPI)—Collie dogs are helping scientists study an eye condition which is effecting more and more Americans every year.

Collies are the first known animals in which detachment of the retina occurs naturally.

In humans retinal detachment is afflicting an increasing number of persons over 50 because of the extended life span in the United States. Scientists believe 5 per cent of the blind population may have it.

At Stanford Medical Center, Dr. Seymour R. Roberts, a veterinarian, and Dr. A. N. Deliaporte, an ophthalmologist, are studying retinal detachment in several dozen collies.

Roberts thinks the condition in collies may be congenital and that the defect may influence the entire breed.

"At present, about 30 per cent of all the collies in the United States have eye defects," he said. "Half of those affected will probably develop detachment, with blindness resulting in a large number."

He suggested that all breeding stock be examined and that dogs with detachment be eliminated from breeding strains.

But he said recognition of the defect is not easy for veterinarians not trained in eye diseases. This is why breeding of afflicted dogs has continued, he said.

"In every detachment," Dellaporta said, "there is a defect in the back of the eye, although this can be too small to be detected in every case.

"A tear or hole is caused in the retina, and fluid escapes between the retina and the choroid, the vessel-bearing membrane. The retina loses its nourishment and degeneration follows."

He says retinal detachment is treated with bed rest to allow the detached part to settle down.

Then an artificial inflammation is created around the hole by electric current, chemicals or intense light. As a result, a scar forms, sealing the hole so no fluid can escape.

Most cats travel alone or in pairs, but lions love company.

Larkspur Woman Hurt In Crash With Sports Car

Mrs. Sarita Mathiasen, 25, of 19 Onyx Street, Larkspur, suffered chin cuts when her small car collided with a sports car in Corte Madera last night, police reported today.

The other driver, Patrick Haberman of 67 Buena Vista Avenue, Corte Madera, was not injured, said Sgt. David L. McIntosh.

Patrolman Fred J. Talmadge said Mrs. Mathiasen was driving east on Tamalpais Drive about 8 p.m. as Haberman, driving north on Eastman Avenue, entered the intersection and turned left on Tamalpais. Mrs. Mathiasen said she did not see Haberman's car until the collision. She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Budget Proposals Before Rec Unit

Budget proposals for 1963-64 will be the major item of discussion at a meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission tomorrow.

The commission will meet at 2 p.m. in room 332 at the Civic Center. Last year, the commission requested a budget of $91,000 but was finally granted only $47,000.

Other items on the commission agenda include reports on the status of the senior citizens programming and building commission, construction at Paradise Beach county park, and wildlife conservation projects.

Morman Birch Approval Denied

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A leader of the Mormon Church said yesterday that former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was not speaking for the church when he endorsed the John Birch Society.

"We are opposed to them and their methods," said Hugh B. Brown, 79, member of the three-man first presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Brown told a press conference that Benson, a member of the church's council of 12 apostles, is "entitled to his opinion" but he is not "entitled to say the church favors the John Birch Society."

In case you want to use a typewriter and don't have one, just rush up to the county library in the Civic Center with 25 cents in hand.

County Librarian Virginia V. Keating today obtained approval of county supervisors to install a "type-o-matic" gadget in the library. Customers drop a quarter, then type like mad to get as much mileage as possible before the machine quits after 40 minutes.

Reason for Mrs. Keating's interest, she explained, is that many people coming to the library want to copy material which is not allowed to leave the premises.

Last K.O. Polio Clinic To Be 'On The House'

The third round of Sabin oral polio vaccine, to be administered to thousands of Marin residents this Sunday, is "on the house," it was announced today by Dr. Eugene P. Shatkin, Marin Medical Society chairman for the K.O. Polio drive.

As an added inducement for full participation in K. O. Polio Family Day at 20 immunization centers, Dr. Shatkin said that donations, while they will be accepted, are not needed to finance the program.

Heavy participation in the first two clinics and the high percentage of 25-cent contributions for the sugar cube shots brought in enough money to cover costs for all three rounds of the campaign.

Dr. Shatkin said the costs were cut down by the number of volunteer workers, the donations of advertising time and space and the fact that the heavy volume permitted low-cost quantity buying of vaccine and other supplies.

The donation buckets will be out at all vaccine centers, but there will be signs on them stating that no contributions are necessary for the Type III vaccine.

Any money donated will be used for some worthwhile community project, Dr. Shatkin said.

The centers will operate from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

More than 1,000 PTA members will conduct a telephone campaign reminding families to take the vaccine. Others will distribute information and pre-registration forms at supermarkets, business houses and professional offices.

On Saturday, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will distribute the forms to homes and shopping centers. Schools will send the forms home with pupils, and milkmen will leave daily reminders with milk deliveries during the week.

Man Slashes Throat, Jumps Off Span

An elderly San Francisco man with his throat cut by a razor jumped off the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday afternoon as its 240th known suicide while three Marin County members of the California Highway Patrol besought him to turn back.

Mrs. Ilde Sweeny of 5 Brabo Terrace, Mill Valley, first noted 72-year-old Ephine V. Tzvetnitzky, a retired janitor, laying a bundle of clothes on the bridge and climbing its east rail. She promptly notified toll plaza authorities at 4:32 p.m. and three patrolmen rushed to the scene.

Officers Angelo Cordino, Richard Topham and T. A. Bragg found Tzvetnitzky sitting on an outer girder with both legs hanging over the edge, bleeding heavily from a long gash along the left side of his throat to the right of his ear. Evidently a razor had just been used. Its empty case was later found.

"Hold it!" shouted the officers. "Wait a minute—don't jump!"

But at that instant Tzvetnitzky let go and slipped to fall into the bay.

Coast Guard search recovered the body at 4:51 p.m. Coroner's deputies in San Francisco said indications were that death occurred from the razor slash before the body struck the water.

'Tampered Switch' Sends Train Racing At Explosive Warehouse

NORTHRIDGE (AP) — Police say a tampered switch sent a train carrying 118 passengers hurtling down a spur line at 60 miles an hour, straight toward a warehouse full of volatile chemicals.

But the twin diesels of the Southern Pacific Coast Daylight couldn't make the turn, jumped the rails, and plowed to a halt in loose earth. The train stopped, without overturning, only 100 feet from the warehouse.

Eleven persons were hurt in the derailment yesterday. But only three were hospitalized, and all escaped serious injury.

Said engineer Frank C. Iverson: "The Lord had His arm around us."

Of the seven cars in the train, only the last three stayed on the track. The last car halted on the switch and the others led off in a jumbled line down the spur and into the field adjoining it.

The Daylight, S.P.'s crack passenger train, was rolling across the populous San Fernando Valley, nearing the end of a run from San Francisco, when it hit the tampered switch in Northridge about dusk.

Said Police Capt. R. W. Lauritzen:

"The switch was deliberately thrown."

An S.P. official termed it deliberate sabotage. He said someone threw the switch after disconnecting wiring to a warning signal, called a flag by railroaders. The signal still indicated the main line was open when the lead diesel crossed the switch at a mile-a-minute speed.

"At first, it felt like we hit something," said a passenger, R. R. Schrobe, of Chicago. "Then we seemed to be sailing through the air. It seemed like several moments. Then we hit, and everything was all shaken up. People were thrown to the floor and into the aisles. Luggage came flying down from the overhead racks."

The uninjured passengers were taken into the cafeteria of the chemical company whose warehouse the train almost hit. The firm makes drugs for a pharmaceutical house and an official said the warehouse contained highly explosive chemicals.

The accident occurred when the train was still 20 miles out of Los Angeles. While railroad crews worked to clear the tracks, the passengers finished their ride by bus.

Rail Talks Set On Rule Changes

CHICAGO (AP)—Five railroad unions, representing 210,000 on-train employees and seeking to save the possible elimination of 65,000 jobs, will meet with the nation's carriers next week in a climactic session of their long dispute over changes in work rules.

The new bargaining talks were set for March 13 after the U.S. Supreme Court yesterday upheld the right of the railroads to make sweeping changes in work rules to eliminate jobs regarded by the carriers as unnecessary. The lines claim what they term antiquated work rules cost them 600 million dollars a year.

A railroad spokesman and chief negotiator said the carriers will "move promptly as possible" to make the rule changes. He added he was confident there would be no national rail strike.

But spokesmen for two brotherhoods warned of a possible strike if the railroads put the changes into effect before an agreement can be reached.

The new talks in Chicago will deal with the proposed elimination of about 40,000 firemen from diesel locomotives in freight and yard service.

West Point has been a military post since 1778.

Railroad Clerks Strike Threat Is Headed Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Southern Pacific railroad clerks and the company reached "a broad area of agreement" yesterday, heading off the threat of a railroad strike, according to federal mediator Frank O'Neill.

O'Neill said the two sides could settle their differences in two or three days. He brought railroad and union negotiators face to face yesterday for the first time in a month after both sides agreed to continue talks.

At O'Neill's request, the company withdraw its court restraining order against a strike and the union lifted its strike threat.

O'Neill said he doesn't think there will be a strike. However, should the talks fail, the union will be free to strike in 72 hours and the company could seek another court injunction.

"This is not going to be another dry run," O'Neill said. "We have reduced certain things to writing and have far more than an oral understanding."

The union, the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, representing about 11,000 Southern Pacific clerks, had threatened to strike over disagreement on job loss through automation. The company had not wanted to promise placement of workers who lost their jobs because of automation.

More Traffic Seen With Third Span

affected by the location were not in favor of the crossing," says Raab.

Instead of the expected third-bridge report there was substituted an anaylsis of possible vehicular diversion from the six toll bridges in the Bay Area by construction of any of three proposed highway crossings.

That state officials now only find confirmation of their original ideas about the desirability of a Marin San Francisco link via the Tiburon Peninsula is indicated by several details of the new report.

"The outstanding feature of the Golden Gate Bridge traffic pattern is that the two largest traffic producing segments in Marin County send one-half of their traffic to downtown San Francisco," comments the report.

"Desire lines" showing points of origin and of destination merge for the biggest pattern between Marin's population centers across or near the Tiburon Peninsula to downtown San Francisco—the third bridge route dropped because of popular outcry.

The report says that "segment 54, which includes San Rafael and Novato, and segment 52 comprising Mill Valley and Corte Madera, provide a total of 34,977 vehicles per day or about 62 per cent of the entire Golden Gate Bridge traffic. Of this amount, 16,683 vehicles per day travel to downtown San Francisco."

Average daily traffic of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge was 9,900 vehicles daily last year, mostly between San Rafael and two East Bay areas, Richmond-San Pablo, and Berkeley.

"If a northwest freeway in Richmond were constructed," the report notes, "additional traffic would be attracted to the bridge from the expanding areas north and east of Richmond."

Traffic over this bridge, which opened Sept. 1, 1956, has been increasing about nine per cent annually. Golden Gate Bridge traffic has been increasing about seven per cent a year since the end of World War II, says the report. The two bridges' total 1961 traffic was 24,294,000 crossings.

Though those composing the study can't report on further progress of "third bridge" plans they included recital of what was recommended in the several studies starting with a January, 1957, study recommending a double-deck structure from San Francisco to the west side of Angel Island and Tiburon Peninsula. The last "progress report" of February 1962 proposed alternate routes on the east or west side of the island to either side of the peninsula, both going to Highway 101 at Alto after reaching a common Trestle Glen Drive point.

Bret Harte Plan 'Saved'

Chula Vista Sewer Costs Put At $719 A Dwelling

The Bret Harte Drainage Assessment District came near being washed out last night, but the San Rafael City Council decided to hold its collective thumb in the dike until April 15.

The Chula Vista Assessment District for street and sewer work fared better, getting the go-ahead on the basis of a revised assessment plan.

It wa sactually Everett Murphy, more than the council, who played the role of the Little Dutch Boy to save the million-dollar Bret Harte district from immediate extinction.

From opening of the Bret Harte hearing about 9:45 p.m., the council heard speaker after speaker complain that its cost was needlessly high, that if the city would clean its ditches and relocate its pumps much of the area's flooding might be prevented, and that anyway the city should pay the cost of the project.

Murphy, of Ralph H. Murphy and Sons contractors; Paul Ciampi, beer distributor, and Robert Bottini, of Crown Glass Co., urged the district be kept alive while more property owners are rallied on its behalf. (This made exactly three more voices in favor of the district than at the hearing a month ago.)

Then Carl Rickard, another property owner, tossed the drowning district an anchor. He demanded: "Does the city not have an obligation to keep the streets dry?"

"I'm very pleased to pass this question to the regularly elected city attorney," said Edwin Ness of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglas and Anderson, the assessment district attorneys.

City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw, who minutes before had been on the other side of the railing opposing the district as a Bret Harte property owner, arose smiling.

"I did some research on it," he said. "It is the obligation of the city to maintain streets in a serviceable condition . . . The courts have held that this gives the city power to condemn off-street drainage areas to prevent flooding."

"And what would be the source of the money for this?" inquired Mayor John F. McInnis.

Bagshaw said it would be the "primary obligation of the property owners . . . but also the obligation of the city as a whole."

Councilmen had already reiterated the city would pay the cost of proper diking of Mahon Creek, estimated at $200,000 up, to prevent flooding from that source if the assessment district went through.

McInnis asked if the property owners wished to keep the district alive by continuing the hearing for further study. There were cries of, "No! Throw it out."

Then Murphy arose. He said that "in a few hours today we were able to round up people representing $2,060,000 of assessed valuation favorable to this district."

"I think it would be premature to throw this out at this time," he declared.

Murphy said he doubted it would be worthwhile to include the upper Bret Harte residential area, which had been tentatively added to the assessment area by engineer Daniel P. Coleman at the council's direction. But in the industrial area, declared Murphy, "we can pay 15 cents a square foot for this drainage and it will raise the value of our area unquestionably by 50 cents a square foot."

He asked that the hearing be continued a month. Councilman L. H. (Bud) Baar moved it be continued to April 1. "Make it after the election," suggested Councilman Fred E. Jensen (who is a candidate for re-election April 8).

Attorney Ness urged the continuance be "at least until April 15." On motion of Jensen, the council voted unanimously, and with obvious relief, to continue to April 15.

All bids on the project were then rejected, with new bids to be called if the district is salvaged.

The Chula Vista district was approved unanimously, with the sewer work to be assessed at $719.50 per dwelling unit and the street work assessed on a basis of street frontage and area. Engineer Warren Nute said he thought the $719.50 figure would provide enough to cover the low bid on the sewers.

There was far from unanimous approval of this plan, with enough argument to keep the hearing going for an hour and 45 minutes, but a majority of property owners present seemed willing to share the cost.

Housewife Booked For Petty Theft

A 34-year-old Fairfax housewife was booked by San Rafael police yesterday for petty theft after more than $500 worth of furniture, allegedly stolen from Mobilia of Denmark at 1417 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was found in her home.

Mrs. Joan Delores Springett of 28 Oak Tree Lane was released on $262.50 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Mrs. Springett, according to police, was discovered Friday by manager Albert Grimm in a back store room of the furniture store loading a chair into her car. She paid for that chair and another missing since Feb. 20.

However, other missing items from the store, including furniture, lamps, bowls, trays and butlers, were discovered in her home when police checked yesterday.

College Means Cash For U.S. Graduates

NEW YORK (UPI)—The median annual income for men who have completed four years of college is $7,261 or $2,209 more than that earned by those with only a high school education, the National Industrial Conference Board reports.

For men with five or more years of college, the median is $7,691, or $430 above the income of those with four years of higher education.

Ross School Board Told Additions To Cost District About $12,000

The Ross School District board was told last night that additions and repairs to the school would cost a minimum of about $120,000.

Supt. Donald D. Leister said this figure includes four more classrooms and their furnishings, remodeling of the library, re-roofing, and resurfacing the play area.

The board decided to seek additional information from architects and consider at its March 18 meeting whether the minimum needs of the school should be met by a bond issue or whether a master plan and timetable should be drawn up to satisfy needs of the projected enrollment in future years.

Leister has told the board that a bond issue of over $100,000 would require an 11 to 15-cent tax increase. The board has been considering a reduced tax rate of $2.22, down 15 cents from this year.

There was no discussion on the opinion of the county counsel's office, received by board members, that the Del Mesa area was annexed to the school district legally in 1934. Legality of the annexation had been questioned by Mrs. Helene Hjort of West Road.

The board accepted three resignations "with regret." They were:

Miss Ruth Willhoit of San Francisco, who will retire after teaching second grade since 1944; Mrs. Elizabeth Merriman of 3 Crystal Court, Mill Valley, fourth grade teacher; Vice Principal Charles I. Fitch of 25 Garden Rock Road, San Anselmo, who will seek "to better himself professionally," according to Leister.

The board decided to ask the town council's permission to move the baseball backstop to the Ross Common, adjacent to the school. Complaints have been received by the school on baseballs being hit into nearby back yards.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special) —A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

MADAME SECRETARY TELLS KENNEDY

Frances Perkins, former secretary of labor in Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet, pats President John F. Kennedy on his shoulder at a Washington dinner celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Department of Labor. Miss Perkins cited her acquaintance with William B. Wilson, who was the first secretary of labor in 1913. She then made the remark to the president, "that was before you were born, sir." The dinner was held last night. (AP Wirephoto)

Corte Madera Approves $500 For Ridge Way

The Corte Madera Town Council last night unanimously authorized Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow to spend $500 to improve Ridge Way, the blocked 210-foot path between Crescent Road and Morningside Drive, with a five-foot-wide stretch of asphalt and redwood headers.

This means all or part of a patio now in the way of the 56-year-old path must be removed, councilmen said. The council declined an offer by Carl J. Kalb of Larkspur, owner of the home at 124 Crescent Road, where the patio was built, to remove one redwood tree to allow a path farther from the home.

"We have a policy against removing trees," said Councilman Charles F. Pendleton, who moved for the path's improvement.

Brandow reported that the path was an easement created in 1907 but not dedicated to the town. Dedication now is possible with 15 quitclaim deeds from neighbors, he said.

Edward A. Friend, attorney for Bonne Berends of 122 Crescent Road, said the fences and patio of the Kalb property extend five feet within the easement. He said a patio of Berends, built before Berends moved in, extends 10 or 11 feet into the easement.

The vote was 3-0, Councilman Robert I. La Dow on leave and Councilman Albert E. Kogler absent.

A number of neighbors desiring reopening of the path left the town after the council vote.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Awarded a contract for a drainage interceptor on Tamalpais Drive between Lakeside Drive and Highway 101 to Ray Anderson of Santa Rosa at $6,332.50, lowest of 14 bids that ranged to $9,682.50.
2. Agreed for Pendleton and Councilman Norman R. Barnett to meet with members of the newly formed town employees Association March 28 to discuss a retirement plan.
3. Introduced an ordinance to ban parking for about 800 feet along Casa Buena Drive alongside the Highway 101 fence near Marin Joe's Restaurant.
4. Voted 2-1, Colthurst dissenting, to approve a subdivision map for Mariner Cove unit 5.
5. Approved a tentative plan for grading and drainage on the equipment yard of Holtzinger Brothers east of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks, subje / to receipt of a letter of approval from W. J. Heerdt, owner of surrounding land, agreeing to drainage onto his property.

Inverness Boatel Expansion Approved

Expansion of the Golden Hinde Boatel beach and harbor in Inverness was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The commission granted architectural approval for plans which include eight new cabins, an addition to the boat shop, floating docks, and filling and dredging of the harbor.

About half the property of the boatel on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the northern end of Inverness is under water. The proposed expansion will allow a larger beach area and a breakwater levee.

Commenting on the levee, which would enclose the boatel property except for a 50-foot entrance to the harbor, principal planner Sidney Shaw told the commission there would be "an appreciable extension into existing open water which would quite noticeably alter the shoreline appearance."

Shaw said the staff was "not saying this is bad, but there should be some standards of shoreline development at Inverness and Tomales bay." He said the West Marin Master Plan should have some specific guides for shoreline development.

The Marin County Planners Also:

1. Approved a tentative map for a two-lot subdivision of 97 acres west of Samuel P. Taylor State Park. The subdivision is planned according to the San Geronimo Valley Master Plan and is proposed by Skyridge Enterprises of Forest Knolls.
2. Approved tentative maps for the subdivision of two existing Red Hill apartment buildings at Tiburon Boulevard and Lyford Drive, Tiburon. Each building will be divided into four condominium apartments.
3. Discussed a proposed zoning ordinance amendment restricting two-story accessory buildings to at least 40 feet from property lines. Specific changes in the ordinance will be discussed March 18.
4. Discussed zoning classifications which would include building site regulations for areas from two to 10 acres. Existing regulations apply only to areas up to one acre, except in specific conditions. The discussion was continued indefinitely.

SEASHORE PERMITS UP TO PLANNERS

Use permits for private developments in the Point Reyes National Seashore exist more or less at the discretion of the Marin County Planning Commission, its members were told today.

The commission had asked County Counsel E. Warren McGuire for his opinion as to whether existing use permits might be revoked and whether new permits might be granted.

Answers to both questions are finally up to the commission, McGuire said. "The granting of such a use permit is a matter of discretion and grace and is not something which a property owner is entitled to receive upon application," McGuire wrote.

But, if work has actually been done according to the permit's terms, there is a "vested interest" in the permit and it may not be revoked, he continued.

The opinion was requested two weeks ago when the commission granted architectural supervision for two 12-unit apartment buildings on the beach at Drake's Bay. The project was approved under a use permit granted last year to Drake's Beach Estates Inc., before the Point Reyes National Seashore was established by Congress.

"I see that we're in no different position now than we were several years ago," said Benjamin P. Bonelli, attorney for the developers. "There is still no land, no money, no seashore. The 'law' which establishes the park just confuses things."

Actress Hedy Lamarr Married To Attorney

FRESNO (UPI)—Actress Hedy LaMarr and attorney Lewis W. Boies Jr., honeymooned today at an undisclosed resort following a simple wedding at the Fresno home of a friend last night.

It was the sixth marriage for the 47-year-old Vienna born actress and second for Boies, 42, a Beverly Hills attorney and former assistant district attorney here.

San Rafael Parks Unit Seeks To Buy Terra Linda Site

Members of the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission decided yesterday that they will ask the San Rafael City Council on March 18 to provide funds in the next budget for purchase of a park in Terra Linda.

Commissioners inspected a six-acre park site at the end of De La Guerra Road yesterday afternoon. It is one of three being considered as a site for a neighborhood park, Recreation Director Joseph D. Rodota said today.

The De La Guerra site, now owned by Thomas Nunes, could be acquired for around $40,500. Rodota said prices have not been discussed with owners of the other sites.

Rodota said the De La Guerra site will probably receive the strongest recommendation when commissioners appear before the councilmen.

Marriage On Rocks

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Circuit Court Judge W. Cloyd says an estimated four divorces are granted for every 10 marriage licenses issued in St. Louis county. He said the rate is much higher than the national average of one divorce for every four licenses.

Timber production is California's fifth largest industry.

Belvedere Bachelors Case Rests

The Case of the Belvedere Bachelors was laid to rest last night and Belvedere fervently hopes it will forever rest in peace.

City Atty. William H. MacKay reported to the city council that, prior to filing a suit as instructed at the previous meeting, he inspected the premises of R. O. Valentine on Corinthian Island on Feb. 16 and learned that:

1. Only two unrelated persons were occupying the four-story main building.
2. No one was occupying the accessory building which consisted of a living room, bath, kitchen and bar. He was satisfied a permit had been issued to construct the second building.

Consequently no violation existed, he reported.

MacKay was requested to write owned Valentine of San Francisco outlining the city ordinance concerning single-family residences in Belvedere and advising him that should it in the future be violated, the city would proceed with a suit.

Auto Registration Penalties Listed

Motorists who fail to apply for 1963 registration of their vehicles before Thursday will have to pay a penalty of a doubled registration fee and a 50 per cent increase in the in-lieu tax on the vehicle license.

The penalties for late registration do not effect persons who applied for registrations by mail before Feb. 4 and have not received their plates yet because of the delay in processing.

Burning Of Leaves Is Problem In Belvedere

Smog control at a very local level was discussed by the Belvedere City Council last night at a short but well-attended meeting.

On complaint of an unidentified resident, the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District had issued a citation to the city prohibiting its use of the city incinerator.

City Mgr. Britton Rey contended the chimney diameter was no greater than the average household chimney and only wood products are burned.

Councilman John R. Moore reported the city streets full of dry leaves, constituting a fire hazard, and urged they be burned.

Rey said the leaves could be hauled to Sonoma County or the incinerator could be rebuilt to eliminate the offending smoke.

"What are we going to do?" asked Moore.

"You tell me," countered Rey.

Councilman E. G. Weed recommended writing a letter to the control board asking how to make incinerators legal and requesting special burning permits each day until the leaves are gone.

Councilman John H. Flint reported he and other city officials had met with representatives with the Tiburon Sanitary District, County Supervisor Peter Behr and Donald Frost, county public works director, regarding a proposed flood control district.

Frost, he said, would provide engineering plans and recommendations for the district boundaries but could not start until later this month.

The council voted to install stop signs at Golden Gate and Belvedere avenues following presentation of letters from six residents.

Residents of Eucalyptus Road reported they were ready to dedicate the road to the city. Rey was requested to draft a legal document.

A revokable license was granted to the Westshore Co. to permit lessee Mrs. Neville J. Rich to build a dock extending into city property.

City employees' accumulated sick benefit leave was increased from 45 to 60 days.

New School Board Member Is Named

Patrick W. Pollock, 39, of San Anselmo was appointed last night to serve out the unexpired term of Harry Press on the county board of education.

Press resigned last month because of business reasons. The term runs to June 30, 1965.

Pollock was named after Arnold J. Dolcini Jr. automatically became president of the board, replacing Press in that position. Walter L. Johnson was elected vice president to succeed Dolcini

Dolcini, who was also chairman of the screening committee which selected Pollock, reported three of eight names presented to the committee had been withdrawn before consideration began. The five remaining candidates were interviewed by the three-man committee, he said.

The board voted unanimously for Pollock although the name of none of the other four candidates was even presented to it at the meeting.

After the meeting Dolcini, after consulting with other board members, refused to disclose the names of the other candidates.

He said, however, that the other members of the board knew who was being considered because they had received letters from the county superintendent informing them of each candidate.

The new board member was not present last night because of a meeting conflict. He and his wife and son live at 72 the Alameda, San Anselmo. The son is a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School.

PATRICK W. POLLOCK
Replaces Harry Press

Pollock is senior traffic analyst for Fibreboard Paper Products Co. in San Francisco. He attended San Francisco City College, received his B.S. in business administration from University of California at Berkeley, his bachelor of business administration degree from Golden Gate College, and is doing graduate work there for his M.B.A. degree.

Pollock served on the steering committee of the citizens committee for the recent successful tax increase campaign for Marin Junior College District, and is on the college's citizens advisory board. He also has been active in Republican politics.

The board passed a resolution of commendation for Press's service.

Supervisors Ask Bus Service Near Novato

Marin County supervisors today asked the Greyhound Lines whether bus service can be provided for commuters living in unincorporated areas near Novato.

This action, moved by Supervisor William Gnoss of Novato, followed reading of a complaint from Charles P. Davis of 1709 Indian Valley Road.

Davies wrote that within one mile of his home "there are four Cadillacs, two Buicks and two Thunderbirds making a daily commute to San Francisco with no passengers."

He said he felt Marin commuters would use more buses if there were more buses with more frequent service.

Drain Problem Sent To County

The Tiburon Sanitary District Commission last night voted to refer to the Marin County Department of Public Works the problem of a special drainage district, according to Robert A. Sterling, secretary.

The district called for bids on a new sewer line across Tiburon Boulevard to service new buildings now under construction.

Chairman Joseph Johnson appointed Randolph Esplin and Irving Moulin to the 1963-64 budget committee.

The audit report on the 1962-63 account was accepted. Sterling reported the district was $400 short in its $25,000 budget.

Enough Hot Air To Warm Up Ears

KNOXVILLE, Iowa (AP) — M. E. Ridlen of Knoxville says that one morning when the temperature was below zero three boys came into the laundry and dry cleaning establishment he operates.

Each put a dime in one of the hair driers he has in the lobby, and sat under the drier for 10 minutes or so—to get his ears warmed up.

Terra Linda Oaks Annex Step Closer

An ordinance annexing Terra Linda Oaks 9 to the City of San Rafael was voted initial passage today, but it cannot be effective in time for residents there to vote for city officials (other than board of education) in the April 8 election.

Vote of the city council passing the ordinance to print was unanimous. It will come up for final passage on March 18. But after that, explained City Clerk W. L. Morgan today, the city must by law wait 30 days before sending it to the secretary of state for certification.

There's a bright side to the picture for Terra Linda Oaks 9 residents, though: While losing the vote this year, they also save city taxes. The area cannot be placed on city tax rolls until next year, and meantime it is already getting city services.

The city council, with all five members present, handled most of its agenda for last night's meeting today, as public hearings on Chula Vista and Bret Harte assessment districts lasted until midnight.

Its actions included:

1. By unanimous vote, upheld the planning commission's denial of a permit for Spiro Spiliotis to build a 38-unit apartment house between Fairfax and Novato streets in East San Rafael. The planning commission had objected that 18 cars would have to back into the street as the building is planned.
2. Agreed that John E. Kenney can install public improvements in Terra Linda Meadows to meet city specifications before filing the final subdivision map.
3. Instituted proceedings for the Northgate Industrial Park Assessment District, a one-owner district on Draper Companies property, and appointed Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Wallace as attorneys and Carlos Gonzalez as engineer.
4. Accepted a deed from Frank H. and Helen Howard for property at Fifth Avenue and C Street, first of three properties sought as site for a new city hall.
5. Approved the final map of the eight-lot Coleman Heights subdivision of John M. Brusati.
6. Approved the final map of the 10-lot East Harbor Estates subdivision of Kaehler and Farrar in East San Rafael.
7. Approved purchase for $810.96 from Unique Corp. of a sliver of land needed for widening of Third Street.
8. Adopted an ordinance raising the salaries of elective city officials as follows: police chief to $900 per month, city clerk to $850, and city treasurer to $750.
9. Approved the final map of the Holiday, a condominium apartment house planned by Kaehler and Farrar on Fairfax Street in East San Rafael, as a vertical subdivision.
10. Called for bids to be opened March 18 on 36 culvert grates, to replace grates which Public Works Director Norris Rawles said are too small or of improper design to handle runoff water.
11. Set for March 18 hearings on planning commission turndowns of use permits for Hagel Supply Co. and Joan Wing.

Vacancies Filled In Corte Madera

The Corte Madera Town Council last night filled vacancies on the park and recreation commission and the board of design.

Insurance man Merritt J. Wieder of 15 Chickasaw Court, president of the Marin County Assn. of Insurance Agents, was named to the park and recreation commission.

Architect Peter Lenz of 459 Redwood Avenue, of the San Francisco firm of Campbell and Wong, was named to the board of design.

An appointment to the Larkspur-Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission was delayed to March 18 because Councilman Albert E. Kogler, who will suggest the appointee, was absent.

San Rafael Library Might Get Records

The San Rafael Library Board last night asked librarian Vivian Smith to investigate the cost of starting a collection of records for public circulation.

"We've had a great number of requests for records," Mrs. Smith said.

Tam Board Approves School Access Road

Tamalpais Union High School District trustees last night approved an access road for a proposed high school site in Belveron Gardens, and approved in principle cooperating with the city of Larkspur to extend Doherty Drive to Highway 101.

On the site access the board, with Trustee William B. Lewis absent, approved the road from Trestle Glen Boulevard recommended by architect Ralph B. Priestley which would lie west of an existing road to the Shepherd of the Hills Church.

Trustees approved the road after viewing the area with Priestley and County Principal Planner David Van Pelt on Sunday. They rejected use of the existing Church Road on Priestley's contention it would be unsafe.

Among a dozen Tiburon residents attending the meeting was the Rev. Sig Saudrock, pastor, who said the school road would cut across church-owned land that the church planned to sell for a subdivision.

Boundaries of the high school site were not discussed; they are still being worked out by Priestley and Van Pelt.

Larkspur City Mgr. Ronald E. Fiper and City Engineer Beverly Whitlow presented plans to extend Doherty Drive to Lucky Drive for a link to Highway 101.

Whitlow said any differences with Priestley over the extension's route were minor and could be ironed out. Priestley did not voice his differences but Trustees John C. Siemens, and James M. Stubblebine said they were concerned over the road's nearness to Redwood High School buildings.

Trustees instructed Supt. Chester G. Carlisle to cooperate with the city on plans for the road.

Tamalpais Union High School trustees also:

1. Approved these new teachers for Sir Francis Drake High School for next school year: Sarah S. Thompson, French; James J. Brown, science and art; Joseph A. Biasotti, art; and Beverly Ann Barnes, a Tamalpais High graduate of Marin City, history.
2. Approved 33 teachers for the district adult evening school beginning March 25.
3. Accepted with thanks a check for $508 from the Redwood High class of 1962 for books for the school library, and gifts of books to the same library from Anne Woodward, and Mrs. Grace Nelson, and the James McFarlane memorial.
4. Voted support of the Kentfield School District $850,000 bond election on the April 16 ballot.
5. Acknowledged with thanks support of the Lagunitas and Sausalito School District boards for the high school district's April 16 election to retain the district's $1.09 operating tax.

Defunct Cleaning Firm Is Suing Manufacturers

Harvey's Quick Clean dry cleaning establishment, which opened on San Rafael's Fourth Street last year and then folded, is suing the manufacturers and distributors of the dry cleaning equipment for a half million dollars damages.

The suit was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court by attorney Quentin H. Smith of San Jose for A.T. and R. Enterprises Inc. The complaint alleges that Speed Queen, a division of McGraw-Edison Co., delivered five dry cleaning machines that failed to function properly and were "wholly unfit" for commercial use.

The dry cleaning firm bought the machines for $43,252. The manufacturers failed to send trained men to install and maintain them as promised, the suit contends.

The firm seeks $100,000 general damages; $100,000 for loss of goodwill; $66,000 for cost of salaries, taxes, and operating expenses; and $250,000 for exemplary damages.

The company closed in July of last year.

Other defendants named in the suit include Eric F. Chemnitz Co. Inc., Speed Wash Sales Co., and several John Does.

Missing Youth Might Be In Serious Trouble

A 16-year-old Loma Verde boy, who disappeared from home Sunday night in the family car, may be in serious trouble with the law in Roseville, according to reports from Grass Valley.

Last night, San Rafael police received word from Grass Valley police that the youth is in custody there and being questioned in connection with assault with a deadly weapon against a police officer in Roseville.

San Rafael police turned the information over to the sheriff's office because the boy lives in the unincorporated area of the county.

Sheriff's Deputy E. A. Koehn said the boy's father reported his son had no gun as far as he knows but the youth did take some .22-caliber bullets.

Rec Meeting Off

The Novato Park and Recreation Commission will not meet tonight because of lack of business before it. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., March 18, at the community center.

Cirrhosis Of Liver Caused Woman's Death

Portal cirrhosis, a disease of the liver usually brought on by prolonged drinking, caused the death of a 67-year-old San Rafael woman who died yesterday morning in a county jail cell, according to Asst. Coroner William Bradley.

The victim, Mrs. Florence Mary Deurloo of 912 Lincoln Avenue, was found dead by sheriff's matron Corinda Biggio at 8:40 a.m. Other jail inmates said Mrs. Deurloo was alive at 7 a.m. when breakfast was served.

Mrs. Deurloo was booked Saturday night on a drunk charge. She was taken first to San Rafael General Hospital, but was examined and released.

The woman lived alone in an apartment cluttered with garbage, empty beer cans and wine bottles, San Rafael police said. Bradley said she was a retired cook but had not worked for several years. She lived on Social Security benefits and a veteran's widow's pension.

Authorities are trying to locate Mrs. Deurloo's three daughters, whom Bradley listed as June Johnson and Ethel Cresson of San Diego and Jane Abbott of Oregon.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Clothing Worth $40 Taken From Drier

Assorted clothing worth $40 disappeared from a drier at Tamalpais Laundromat Sunday night, the owners reported to the sheriff.

Gerard C. St. Jovite of 110 Wisteria Way, Mill Valley, said his wife Sherie put the clothing in the drier about 7 p.m. When he went back to the laundromat at Dolan's Corner about 7:40, the drier was empty.

THE FRUIT OF ADVERTISING

Back when our century was young, oranges were a rare and expensive treat to be enjoyed only at Christmas and other special occasions.

Then advertising started telling the nation about the health benefits of vitamin-rich oranges in daily diets.

Today, millions of families start the day with oranges or orange juice—and are better off for it. Today, growing, processing and shipping oranges and juice give employment to thousands of people. Today, oranges and orange juice are no longer rare or expensive—this is the fruit of advertising.

That's how advertising works.

It tells millions about products that can make a person healthier, happier, wiser, better looking, more comfortable, safer. As demand grows, products can be improved in quality and lowered in price through mass production. As new industries grow, new jobs are created. That's how our free economy operates to give Americans a standard of living unmatched by any other country in the world.

How Far Back Can They Dig To Pay For Water Plan

We propose a statute of limitations on the right of state government to make use of an authorization to sell bonds.

The reason is obvious. The State Department of Water Resources has just announced that it is going back 30 years to a bond issue authorized during the Depression to sell $325 million more bonds for the State Water Plan.

The Brown Administration is making it terribly difficult for we who supported his water plan. We helped, we think, to pass a $1.7 billion bond issue to construct the state water plan. Now, without allowing time for discussion or debate, they have dug back into the archives and come up with a way to spend an additional $325 million by issuing revenue bonds.

In general, we much prefer revenue bonds to general obligation bonds. With revenue bonds you are on a pay-for-itself system. General obligation bonds come right out of our tax pockets.

But when the voters authorized that $1.7 billion general obligation bond issue, they knew that there would be some revenue-producing features. They expected these would be used to reduce the tax cost to them.

But now, almost by whim, it appears, any revenues will be eaten up by newly proposed revenue bond issue.

That's why we think we should have a statute of limitations on bond issue authorization.

Who knows what long-ago approvals might have been given by the voters which now could be dredged up and shackled around our bowed necks? Perhaps we had better begin to research all past legislation to find and block any other such tax loop-holes in reverse.

But on the other hand, that will be unnecessary. The administration probably already has a whole staff combing the past for new revenue sources. They will find any that are there.

EASY COME, EASY GO

A London typist squandered a $40,800 inheritance in a three-year spending spree.

When asked if she had really enjoyed the experience, she frankly replied: "Not particularly."

As a sad finale, the short-lived heiress said she had to start looking for another typing job.

There is something alluring about an "easy come, easy go" pattern of life, regardless of the amount of time and money involved. But it is seldom satisfying.

A moral responsibility accompanies every blessing entrusted to us. Sooner or later, each of us must render an account of our stewardship. We will be called on to answer for the manner in which we have used the advantages loaned to us by God.

Think of yourself as a divine instrument in changing the world for the better. There is little likelihood that you will waste either your money or your talents if you keep ever in mind that you have an important mission in life to fulfill.

Delegates To CDC Conclave Have Trouble Finding Place To Sleep

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

Marin delegates, some 25 or 30 strong, are faced with an unusual problem in connection with the annual California Democratic Council meeting in Bakersfield March 29-31. They are having trouble finding places to sleep:

The convention was moved to Bakersfield this year for the first time from its usual Fresno habitat. Bakersfield has a nice new convention center, but delegates trying to get reservations for rooms are finding that the several thousand CDCers are crowding facilities.

There's another unhappiness about the new locale, even without seeing it. Not only is it a longer drive than to Fresno, but airplane passage is more expensive to Bakersfield than it is to Los Angeles, say the delegates.

At present all is quiet on the CDC front — a strange situation indeed. President Tom Carvey is apparently sweeping into a second term with no opposition thus far. It isn't that everybody likes him so much; it's more that no on seems to really hate him. That's where opposition usually develops.

He's taking his whole slate of officers with him, too. So barring last minute campaigning, which certainly is not beyond possibility, the election may be dull indeed.

Most of the battling will be done in the issues conference, which is headed by former Marinite Gerald Hill. In a non-election year, when the restraining hand of the political candidates is less apparent, some real hot resolutions should get through committee and reache the convention floor (that's where the fireworks will be).

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of Democrats, they have opened their new all-year headquarters at 1703 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Jean Brezina is in charge, with Jody Becker chairman of the committee which is to keep the office staffed with volunteer workers.

They had a little party last Thursday morning and showed the volunteers around.

OUT-GOING (and immediately in-coming) Republican County Central Committee chairman Gerald E. Misner was presented with a gift at his home the other night.

In recognition of his service, the card said, and the fact that the central committee doesn't present a gavel to its chief officer.

It was a regulation sized croquet mallet, more than slightly used, and decorated with a big red bow.

The card was signed: From the Liberal Moderate Conservatives.

SPEAKING OF REWARDS, we note that Thomas N. Saunders of Berkeley, one of Governor Brown's campaign managers who handled Bill Grader's unsuccessful congressional campaign, was appointed by the governor to the state Industrial Accident Commission. The salary of a commissioner is $17,365.

Petitions for inclusion in county health department enforcement of state health codes were filed by San Rafael, San Anselmo, Mill Valley, Sausalito and Larkspur, with service to start July 1.

Frantic phone calls about an early morning "prowler" along Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, sent out police who discovered that the stranger was only a soldier looking for Fort Baker.

Tom P. Lucke was elected president of a long inactive but now reorganized Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce. George L. Goheen was chosen vice-president, and Mrs. Laura Wells, secretary.

Scenic Highway Category Need

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

At a meeting of the membership of the Outdoor Art Club of Mill Valley held last Thursday, Feb. 28, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED: That we, the members of the Outdoor Art Club of Mill Valley, urge the California Legislature in this session to create a highway category in the state highway system to be designated as "scenic highway," with specifications, criteria, and standards to be separate and distinct from those of the existing "freeway" or "expressway" categories. And further be it resolved that we urge the legislature to set up appropriate procedures for the development of such scenic highways.

Now would be the time for all those who might agree with this resolution and who have not yet written our Assemblyman (William Bagley) or State Senator (John F. McCarthy), to send their own expressions of opinion, so that our legislators will definitely feel the public support for proper scenic highways.

Easter Seal Sale Now Up To You

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

On March 9, 52,000 Easter Seal mailing pieces go into the mails.

Your Marin Society for Crippled Children & Adults, Inc., has no apology for its appeal to you the people of Marin for we have no "high paid" executive salaries being an entirely volunteer organization, with 92 per cent of the monies collected remaining in the county to serve you or your neighbor.

The real purpose of this letter, however, is to publicly acknowledge the splendid work done by various youth groups of Marin as well as individual youths.

I am only sorry that this story cannot be printed on the front page of all newspapers for all too often it is the ugly side that makes the news and too seldom the good . . .

Last November 52,000 envelopes were distributed to the nine high schools in Marin. The schools participating were Tamalpais, Marin Catholic, Redwood, Sir Francis Drake, San Rafael, Dominican, Terra Linda, Novato and Tomales.

Using a reverse telephone book the advanced typing classes of these schools typed the envelopes with the teachers doing an outstanding job of checking and re-checking for possible errors. THANK YOU, STUDENTS AND TEACHERS, for a job well done.

Then came what is known as the "stuffing" process, i.e., the putting of the typed envelope along with a letter telling you the people what your Marin Society is doing along with a packet of Easter Seals into a large white envelope for eventual mailing.

Here again the teen-agers of Marin played a major role. Twelve girls from Tamalpais Assembly 191 of the Rainbow Girls, under the direction of Miss Linda Walsh, worthy advisor, gave us 30 hours of their time, two Saturday mornings and the morning of Lincoln's Birthday, a school holiday for them. They stuffed, sealed and did a magnificent job. THANK YOU, RAINBOW GIRLS.

The Hi-Y groups, a junior group of the YWCA, under the leadership of Mrs. Donald McCaw, repeated the same process and our heartfelt THANKS to them.

Art students have done poster work for your society. When we were remodeling and renovating the home for the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., we had youths stop by and volunteer their efforts and they worked hard and diligently. Just last week we had a lad from San Rafael High School stop by and offer his services and he is coming in this morning (Saturday) to help bag the mail, the final step before it is delivered to the Post Office for mailing next week.

The Marin Mounted 4-H Club just donated the proceeds of its annual show to your society. THANK YOU, 4-H.

The Senior Citizens helped too. I told them I wanted to acknowledge their help and they said "please tell people that we are not just doddering old people who sit around all day and play cards, but want to serve our community, do serve our community and all too often do not get recognition, we like it and need it."

My deepest gratitude to all of those who have helped us. The Senior Citizens, Methodist Women's Society, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Fairfax Women's Clubs and all other interested individuals and members of the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

And now, citizens of Marin, it is your turn to ask yourself "Who Is Your Neighbor?" and with your dollars to help the physically handicapped,, the socially handicapped, the aged and retired, the medically underprivileged, the illiterate (yes we have mothers who cannot read and have availed themselves of reading therapy through your Society) and the mentally disturbed. Help them that they hay help themselves . . .

Lieutenant Governor Gave Figures To Startle Even Least Complacent

When Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson addressed the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, he put out a few startling facts about the growth of California.

He was talking to city officials, but he threw in some school facts along with his picture of the growth of the state. He said that California would have 30 million people by 1980. That would mean adding the population of Illinois and Ohio to the present population of California.

Most people think of Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati as great cities. Well, they are, but they will be added to California in the next 17 years, along with all the other towns and rural population of those two states.

THE LIEUTENANT governor then went on to state that the schools' problems would be worse than the cities. Where there are now 50,000 students in the state universities, there would be 100,000. Where there are now 100,000 students in the state colleges, there would be 200,000.

"In 1975, there will be more students in the state colleges and universities in California than in all of western European universities in the entire history of mankind," he said.

It's a startling statistic, isn't it? To think that there will be more college students in California in one year than in all the history of Europe, which is the cradle of our civilization.

WITH THE SPRING growing weather full upon us, everyone feels the urge to get out and plant something. This urge is showing in Novato.

A campaign to get flowering plum trees planted in the school yards is resulting in more trees being planted than expected. In a few years, this campaign now should make the school grounds look like a Japanese garden in the Spring.

As usual, the Novato Garden Club is spurring a campaign. Now it is to get the liquid amber trees on Grant Avenue planted in the ground. They carried out a successful plan to get the trees planted in the redwood boxes on the sidewalk.

However, an experiment has shown that the trees do much better when planted in the ground in a hole in the sidewalk. So the ladies have sent out a plea for help in buying enough of the trees to have them planted all the way up Grant Avenue.

These campaigns should really pay off in the town looking better soon.

WHILE THIS IS BEING read Tuesday night, I will be winging my way westward from Colorado Springs. I am scheduled to go back to the Air Defense Command Headquarters as a guest of the Air Force for two days.

The Air Force is taking a group of Bay Area newsmen back to see how our national defenses function.

In those two short days, I hope to get a glimpse of the preparedness of our country. Of course I shall make a report on it later.

In the meantime, it's off into the wild blue yonder for me.

President Sound In Giving Tax Reduction Priority Over Reform

WASHINGTON — The way the President's tax program has been battered and buffeted, you'd think everybody was against it and that its prospects for passing were diminishing.

The opposite is nearer the truth. The controversy, which the bill has evoked, appears larger than it really is, and the consensus for tax reduction now is far greater than it appears.

Some people do not like particular parts of the tax program. That is understandable. Its provisions are subject to considerable change by Congress. But these differences over exactly how the tax cut should be carried out should not be allowed to blur the fact that there is today a nationwide coalition of opinion, embracing the business community, labor leaders, and professional economists, that tax reduction has been delayed far too long, that it will help the economy and that now is the time to act.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY has improved the prospects of his proposed tax cut by what he said to the American Bankers Association symposium on economic growth in Washington last week.

He not only made an unusually effective plea for his bill, but more important, he stated that he will not clutter and becloud the urgent issue of tax reduction with tax reform, which is far more controversial and will take more time to work out.

This is all to the good and will enable Congress to focus on what is paramount.

I AM CONVINCED that the administration's tax objective is prudent and basically conservative. It rests on sound economics and proposes a sound solution.

The central fact is that for more than a decade the growth of the American economy has been held back by the drag of excessively high tax rates. This repressive tax burden has been carried over from World War II and the early postwar years when the tax level was raised still higher to fight inflation.

Inflation is in check; unfortunately so is the economy. Now we need to liberate the economy for faster growth.

No spokesman for the New Frontier, Business Week magazine submits that the President's "analysis of the nation's chief economic problem and the proposed solution make excellent sense."

It makes sense because the proposed tax cut draws on the experience of the industrial nations which have the best postwar record of economic growth, preeminently West Germany and Japan. The lessons their experience teaches are these:

The higher rate of economic growth in Germany and Japan has in very large part resulted from higher rate of investment in new plants, modern equipment, and new products. While we were investing 16 per cent of our gross national product, Germany was investing 24 per cent—and Japan still more.

THE PURPOSE of the tax cut the President has put before Congress is to help free the economy from two inadequacies — insufficient investment by business and insufficient demand by consumers.

It seems to me the President has made a sound decision in giving tax reduction the highest priority and in not confusing the issue by insisting on tax reform simultaneously.

The defenders rattled off the first three spade tricks and then switched to diamonds. South won and needed the rest of the tricks for his contract.

SAFE WAY

South had heard somewhere that the safe way to finesse for a queen is to win the first trick with the ace or king and take your finesse on the second round of the suit.

This is supposed to protect you if one of the opponents has the singleton queen.

Acting on this false theory, South began the trumps by leading the ace. He did catch a singleton queen, but this didn't make him happy. East was sure to take the setting trick with the 10 of hearts.

POOR EXPLANATION

"My play would have been right," South explained, "if the singleton queen had been in the other hand."

It sounded good, but it wasn't true. If South caught a singleton queen with his ace, he was going to lose a trump trick to the other opponent whether that opponent was East or West.

Since South needs all of the trumps he should begin the suit by leading low toward dummy, intending to finesse with dummy's jack if West follows with a low trump.

PRODUCES QUEEN

When West actually produces the queen, dummy wins with the king and continues with the jack. South can then finesse through East's 10.

The singleton queen is about the only danger you can guard against (as long as the opponents hold their cards close to the vest). Leading the ace of trumps surrenders to the danger; leading a low trump gives you a chance.

Don't confuse the situation with A-K-J-10-x opposite x-x-x, where you do cash the ace first and then get to dummy to lead the suite for a finesse.

Former Short Ranch Zoning Starts Slowly

A Marin County Planning Commission effort to "upgrade" zoning of 425 acres between Sleepy Hollow and San Rafael, comprising the area of the former Short Ranch, got under way rather creakingly yesterday but met considerable go-slow advice.

This relatively undeveloped area is currently in "interim D" category which chairman William Upton described as "not satisfactory for it allows too many things."

But opposition from about a dozen property owners or their representatives caused the commission to continue further discussion to April 1.

Attorney Bryan McCarthy, representing two owners holding about one-third of the area, and former planning director Mary Summers, representing Harry Heifitz as owner of about one-fifth, were among speakers who asked delay.

McCarthy's clients are owners of Mount Tamalpais Cemetery at the end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

He said the Cedars Development School, developing a recreational area for retarded children, feels concern over any possibility that residential zoning might interfere with its program.

Mrs. Summers merely wanted time to determine what zoning would be appropriate.

Jack Hill, representing a subdivision of more than 50 acres, protested that there had been no previous knowledge of contemplated new zoning.

Single-family residential zoning with minimum of 10,000-foot lot size was proposed by the planning staff.

Hamilton Airman Is One Of Marin's New U.S. Citizens

One of Marin's newest United States citizens is a young airman third class who has been in the armed forces of his adopted country since his graduation from high school.

A/3c Elizar Robles of the 4435th air transport at Hamilton Air Force Base, was born in Juarez, Mexico, on Dec. 5, 1941. He is the oldest of 12 children in the farm family of Mr. and Mrs. Reyes Robles. His early life was spent working on farms. He did not attend school in Mexico.

In January, 1954, when he was 13 years old, his family moved to Las Cruces, N. M. There he attended school. Immediately after graduating from Gadsden high school in 1961, he joined the Air Force. He has been stationed at Hamilton for 13 months. Single, he lives in the barracks on the base.

He works in a janitorial service in San Rafael from 5 to 9 p.m. daily. This extra money he sends home to help his father support his 11 brothers and sisters.

Marin Wins J. C. Playoff In Overtime Thriller, 74-73

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—College of Marin won the Golden Valley Conference basketball championship last night with a thrill-soaked 74-73 overtime victory over Shasta College in their playoff at the neutral American River J. C. gym.

Faced with a one-point deficit with only 12 seconds remaining in the overtime, the Tars pinned all their hopes on the shoulders of the brilliant Dave Neumann and he responded by making a 15-foot jump shot with three seconds to go, giving Marin and Coach Cal Riemcke their fifth conference title in the last six years.

Marin thus won the right to represent the GVC in a playoff with Fresno City College tonight in Fresno. The winner will play in the 12th annual California Junior College Championships at American River starting on Thursday.

Neumann, the 6-2, 165-pound splendid splinter from Redwood High School, was fabulous in the five-minute overtime period after the teams ended the regulation game in a 67-67 stalemate. Shasta went ahead quickly 69-67 but Neumann came right back to knot it again on a 25-foot jump shot. Shasta again shot ahead 71-69, but Tar Charlie Bullock, another great performer last night, tied it up again from the top of the key.

Neumann then put the Tars ahead for the first time in the overtime on a foul throw, but Shasta regained the lead on a set shot as seconds ticked away. With 12 seconds to go Marin called a time out and devised a play in which Neumann was to get a last desperate shot. They fired the pass to Dave on the right side where he jumped and fired away. The ball hit the rim, bounced high with agonizing hesitancy and then dropped through the mesh for the championship.

An estimated crowd of about 200 Marin fans, who travelled to Sacramento by buses and cars, went wild.

Neumann's final and decisive points were his 23rd and 24th of the game and by far the most important in his outstanding two-year junior college career. Bullock wound up with 23 in his sterling performance.

Marin's opponent in tonight's playoff game at Fresno, 8 o'clock, is ranked second in California J. C. basketball by a Southern California news service. If the Tars beat Fresno City College, their first opponent in the State Championships Thursday will be Riverside J. C., the number one ranked team. "It's like jumping out of the path of a speeding car into the path of a truck," Riemcke said.

In last night's playoff the lead was tied or changed hands 20 times. Marin raced off to an early five-point lead, but the relentless Shasta Knights came back to take a 38-33 halftime advantage as Neumann was having trouble finding the target, scoring only five points in the half.

Shasta pulled away to a seven-point edge, 40-33, at the start of the second half, but Marin caught fire again and challenged the Knights down to the wire. Marin had a 67-65 lead in the final minute, but Shasta knotted it up to force the overtime.

Bullock and Neumann each scored 14 points in the regulation second half while Neumann's five points and two by Bullock accounted for the overtime scoring.

Both teams, who tied for the GVC regular season title with 10-2 records, were accurate shooters last night, Marin hitting 42 per cent of its field goals and Shasta 41 per cent.

Coach Riemcke also cited starter Steve Bryant and reserve Pete Bardea. Bryant scored 14 points and collected nine rebounds while Bardea came off the bench in the second half to snag seven important rebounds. The Tars stayed in Sacramento overnight and were to leave at noon today for Fresno.

The Marin traveling squad includes Neumann, Bullock, Bryant, Bardea, Mike Kavanagh, Randy Petroni, Busch, Bob Nehls, Bob Hamann, Bill Hodgson, Rich Brown and statistician John Larson.

Scoring:
Marin: Bullock, 10-2-22; Neumann, 10-3-23; Bryant, 7-0-14; Kavanagh, 3-1-7; Petrini, 3-0-6; Busch, 1-0-2; Bardeo, 0-0-0. Totals: 34-6—74.
Shasta: Cecil, 6-4-16; Burnum, 5-6-16; Osborne, 5-2-12; Hagstrom, 5-0-10; Badger, 3-0-6; Thompson, 4-1-9. Totals 28-13—73. Foul shots missed: Marin 7, Shasta 11.

Baseball Should Divulge Salaries; Is Mays Getting More Than Mantle?

CONNOLLY

Why should salaries of baseball's highest paid players be a secret?

In the Army or Navy, in politics, in government, in business, in fisticuffs, in horse racing, golf and in almost anything it is no mystery what the individual is paid.

But baseball, like the ostrich, hides its head and foolishly refuses to expose its exact payroll. A lot of the unnecessary hypocrisy could be lifted if the owners changed their policy in such matters.

Quite a fuss has been stirred up lately because the N.Y. Yankees delivered a photostatic copy of Mickey Mantle's $100,000 contract.

The most concerned folks seem to be the S.F. Giants, who have gone to great length to say their Willie Mays is making more money than Mantle. But the Giant brass only gives out with "chin music." They are not taking any steps to prove it.

THE EASIEST way to cut out the horse play is to give the press a copy of Mays' contract. That would put the maximum silencer on the Mantle-Mays salary debate.

So far the only people who know exactly what Willie Mays is paid by the Giants are Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, the Internal Revenue Service and Horace Stoneham.

There shouldn't be any secrets in salary matters as far as the public is concerned. They pay the freight and carry the load. If they knew, for sure, they'd probably root harder and longer. I think all fandom is glad Willie is getting a fat salary. He deserves it.

IF IT is bad business to reveal salaries, how come movie people, and all other forms of show bizness, abolish trade secrets. Film bosses not only reveal the salaries they pay their stars, but if the public is nosey enough, they'll show a balance sheet on the profits.

When baseball first adopted the unwritten law of not revealing salaries, they did so on the basis it would create jealousy among the rank and file. But times have changed since the baseball pioneers first acted. Today there is more unrest and envy because of the bonus owners pay than there is to revealing top salaries.

How would you like to be a regular pitcher with the Giants and sit on the bench with an untried kid they just paid $150,000 to sign?

RUMORS PERSIST that Mike McCormick's first fuss with the Giants came when they paid up his bonus, thus removing from the payroll in the neighborhood of $20,000 a season. Mike's pay check shrunk so much, they say, it affected his pitching.

One of these days soon, I hope baseball is going to take inventory with itself and discover the idea of revealing salaries of their top players isn't a bad notion. They might even argue that the high salaries is a good and sufficient reason for them hoisting the admission price.

Three More Bass Winners Listed

Three Marin men joined the list of Schenley Sportsmen's Club Striped Bass Program winners, according to reports of the club for the 11th week of the program.

Cecil Gothard of Fairfax caught a 22-pound, six-ounce striper near the Richmond Bridge, Arlos Kjos of San Rafael snagged a 27-pounder in Tomales Bay, and Warren Vierra of Novato caught a 19-pound, 12-ounce bass, also in Tomales Bay.

A GREAT DRIBBLER

Charley Lynch, rookie-of-the-year with the western unit of the Harlem Clowns, is termed by owner-coach Al Pullens "The greatest dribbler in exhibition basketball today." Lynch and his Harlem Clowns teammates will take on the Redwood faculty basketball team in what promises to be a hilarious night, Thursday at 8 o'clock, in the Redwood High School gymnasium. The game is being sponsored by the Redwood Benchwarmers.

Tam Champions Dominate All-Marin Basketball Team

Champion Tamalpais Indians placed two men on the All-Marin County Athletic League's first team in the annual basketball balloting last night by high school coaches, Commissioner George Corson announced today.

They are guard Warren Domino and center Art Foster. The balance of the all-star first team was made up of forwards Rod Monti of San Rafael and Larry Gaddy of Drake and guard Ron O'Connell of Marin Catholic.

The second team was made up of forwards Hillard Witt of Redwood and Nick Willard of Novato, center John McKinnon of San Rafael and guards Art Ford of Tam and John McBride of Drake.

The seven varsity coaches also showered honorable mention on four other players. They are forwards Dave Auerbach of Redwood and Jim Durbin of Tam, center Bob King of Terra Linda and guard Bruce Wold of San Rafael.

Monti was the league's scoring champ with 210 points in 12 games, followed by Willard with 202, O'Connell 200, Gaddy 176, Domino 149, Ford 145, Witt 142, Auerbach 129, Durbin 125 and McBride 110.

Tam dominated the All-League balloting with four players on the 14-man squad. San Rafael collected three positions, Drake and Redwood two each and Marin Catholic, Terra Linda and Novato one each.

Tam, which won the league title with a 10-2 record, will play in two post-season tournaments. Thursday the Indians go to Sacramento for the Camellia Tournament and on March 14 to the Tournament of Champions in Berkeley.

The league's Class B coaches last night also their All-League squad which consists of:

Ditmar To Get Chance With Yanks

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Art Ditmar, Casey Stengel's "big mistake" of the 1960 World Series, may be back with the world champion New York Yankees when the major league baseball season opens this year.

The big right-hander was Stengel's choice to pitch the first game of the '60 World Series against Pittsburgh. He lasted just one-third inning, yielding three hits and three runs. Stengel started Ditmar again in the fifth game. This time he was knocked out in the second inning.

A year later Stengel admitted he had made a mistake in not starting southpaw Whitey Ford in the first game. Ford pitched two shutouts against the Pirates, but was not available for the deciding seventh game won by Pittsburgh 10-9.

Ditmar was traded to Kansas City and later released by the A's because of arm trouble. Now he is in the Yankee camp on a trial basis.

Ralph Houk, who succeeded Stengel as Yankee manager, said he was impressed by Ditmar's first camp performance. He retired 12 of the 13 batters he faced.

Houk is giving Ditmar a close look because he says he doesn't want another Robin Roberts to get away. Roberts, former National League star signed with the Yanks a year ago after being released by the Phillies, then was let go without making a pitch in a regular season game. Roberts, picked up by Baltimore, became the comeback of the year.

There were several injuries yesterday as the clubs drilled for the opening of the exhibition season on Saturday.

Milt Pappas, who won 12 games for Baltimore last year, twisted his right knee during batting practice. Roy Face, Pittsburgh relief ace, also was hurt swinging a bat. His right ankle swelled after being hit by a foul tip off his own bat. Both Pappas and Face were told to take a couple of days off.

Catcher Chris Cannizzaro of the New York Mets and infielder John Schaive of the Washington Senators suffered the others mishaps.

Cannizzaro broke the ring finger of his right hand and is expected to be out for a month. Schaive, leading candidate for the third base job, sprained his left ankle while attempting to bunt in a squeeze play.

Rocky Colavito, slugging outfielder finally came to terms with the Detroit tigers for an estimated $54,000. Matty Alou, utility outfielder with the San Francisco Giants, signed for a reported $11,000.

DALLMAR IS NAMED COACH OF THE YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Coach Howie Dallmar of Stanford, who already has clinched at least a tie for the Big Six championship, today was named "North California Basketball Coach of the Year" by the Northern California Basketball Writers' Assn.

But in a surprise development, Steve Gray of St. Mary's edged Stanford's Tom Dose for the "Player of the Year" award.

The writers also chose their all-star teams:

First Team — Gray and Dose; Ollie Johnson, USF; Don Clemetson, Stanford, and Gene Shields, Santa Clara.

Second Team—Dick Smith, California; Joe Weiss, Santa Clara; Brad Dugan, San Francisco State; Dennis Bates, San Jose State; and Leroy Jackson, Santa Clara.

WCAC Race Goes Down To The Wire

It's either Santa Clara or USF in that wild West Coast Athletic Conference race and the winner probably won't be decided until the final day of the season.

The third contender, St. Mary's, was eliminated last night by Spoiler San Jose State in a 60-59 thriller.

Dennis Bates had 19 for the Spartans, while Mel Simpson meshed four free throws with less than two minutes to play to put the Spartans in front to stay.

Joe Lee tallied 14 for St. Mary's as slim Steve Gray was held to 12 points.

The Gaels thus closed out their campaign with an 8-4 mark. USF and Santa Clara are both 8-2.

Santa Clara hosts winless University of Pacific tonight and the Dons entertain the tough Spartans tomorrow. Saturday night, the Broncs and Dons meet at USF.

Alou Signs; Bolin Released By Army

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Only two San Francisco Giants were not in camp today following the arrival of outfielder Matty Alou and pitcher Bobby Bolin.

The arrival and signing of the diminutive Matty was expected and routine, but the arrival of the huge Bolin was a happy surprise.

It had been thought that Bolin would not be discharged from the Army for another month.

"Nobody is happier than I to have Bobby back so soon," said Manager Alvin Dark.

"Except me," Bolin added quickly.

The hard-throwing Bolin, whose fast ball can match anybody's for velocity, was 7-3 for the National League champs and registered five saves.

Giants still absent include Juan Marichal and Orlando Cepeda.

Marichal, who won 18 games last year, is expected in camp any day now.

The case of Cepeda, however, is a different story. Orlando has not budged from his Puerto Rico home and vice president Chub Feeney planned another telephone call to him today.

Alou and Bolin were not the only ones who had their first workouts yesterday. Harvey Kuenn, at 190 seven pounds lighter than he was during last year's World Series, joined the Giants.

Kuenn's had a tough spring. He first stayed home in Wisconsin with his sick wife, then was robbed last week at a Phoenix motel, and finally his son caught chickenpox.

Mrs. Billy Hoeft is taking care of the boy until the recuperating Mrs. Kuenn arrives, so things are getting better.

COW PALACE GETS PLENTY OF ACTION

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Cow Palace has established new record highs in attendance and variety of events, according to manager Edward Diran.

He reported that between Feb. 1 and March 3, the Cow Palace was in use 24 to 31 days with attendance of 518,000.

A Rebuttal From A Scout Master; 'Our Boys Practice Conservation'

STEVENS

The repercussion from Mr. Kodi's beauty spots in general and the depredations of the Boy Scouts in particular continues (and concludes) with the latest rebuttal from Scoutmaster Pierce "Bud" Reeves of Troop 57, San Rafael. His letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Stevens: I've read your column in which the letter by Mr. William Kodi was printed February 12, 1963.

"Who does Mr. Kodi think he is, condemning the Boy Scouts for the destruction done in our forests? He uses the phrase 'Real Sportsmen.' If Mr. Kodi considers himself a real sportsman, then he should look in his own back yard. Since when do Scouts of 11 to 14 years, smoke or drink beer and liquor? I ask anyone to look at these camp sites. What do you find? The residue from so-called sportsmen and campers.

"SURE, A FEW boys chop trees, but very few, and you would have to look hard for them. I have been a Scout master for six years. In that time there have been countless public camping grounds that we have had to clean up BEFORE we used them. The sportsmen or campers had been there before us.

"I'm not blaming sportsmen, campers, or Scouts. There are a few of each who are to blame, not the majority. Scouts are taught conservation from the first campout they ever go on and they practice it.

"I, as a Scout master, invite you to visit any Boy Scout camp and to compare it with those in the public grounds.

I WILL also, if you are interested, send you a complete list of the camp sites (many of them public) that my troop will use this year. I invite you to come before, during or after any of these campouts, without prior notice. I will then expect an apology.

"Scouting is a fine institution. It stands for all the things that we want our young people to be. Most of these boys do their best to live up to this code. They don't deserve to be slandered in such a manner."

No question but what Mr. Reeves, along with MOST Scout masters, is a dedicated man. All honor to him and them.

ADD—Fishing Fool Std Hed

THAT 180-POUND sturgeon we reported George Matthews of Novato caught recently near China Camp was taken on a lightweight rod which had a line of only 15-pound test.

Since Matthews did not have a gaff hook with him, he lassoed the monster with the end of the anchor rope and hauled it into the boat. And George reported "it didn't fit too well in our 14-foot boat."

Matthews and fishing companions Jerry Johnson and Joe Teixeira combined strength to haul in the fish. Said Matthews: "This fish seemed to have much more power than stripped marlin of the same weight that I have taken off Mexico."

Speaking of Novato anglers, the last day of the steelhead season paid off for at least one of the local fishermen, George Vierra of 16 Pico Vista, Nocato. He caught three beauties recently in Paper Mill Creek.

Although the fish were "spent" they were in very good condition and should furnish a few tasty meals for the Vierras.

STUDENT-ATHLETE SCHOLARSHIP

Robert Pinkus, 14, of San Rafael, All-Star fuliback on the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs Pop Warner football team last season, accepts student-athlete scholarship from Marin Boys Club official Harry Cordall. Award was made last Wednesday at a meeting of the boys club's board of directors. The award is based on character, scholarship and athletic ability. He won in competition with other athletes in the boys club.

Marin Team Wins, Nears League Lead

The Billings-Hutchison Builders of Marin today were only one-half game out of the lead in the Alameda Winter League.

A win by the Builders Sunday coupled with a loss by league-leading Milen's Jewelers Friday put the Builders one-half game off the pace with a 5-2 record. Milen's is 6-2 in the second half.

Behind the hitting of Ron Cole and Ron Blum, the Builders triumphed over the Yanke Rookies 6-4 in Sunday's game. Cole smashed a triple and a double and Blum ripped out a pair of singles.

The win went to starting right-hander Jerry Walters who allowed two runs and three hits in five innings. Also sharing the mound duties were Ron Cole and Bob DeRosa.

ROSBURG 'DISAPPEARS'

Life Begins At 40 For Golf Pro Bo Wininger

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Life appears to be starting all over again for 40-year-old Francis (Bo) Wininger.

The gray-haired, blue-eyed Oklahoma City professional won the richest tournament of his lifetime yesterday by outscrapping Bob Rosburg in the final four holes of the $40,000 Greater New Orleans Open invitational golf tournament.

The victory brought him a check of $6,400. Wininger won a total of $495 in six previous tournaments this year.

Yesterday he came from behind twice to become the first player in history to win the New Orleans tournament two straight years. Both years he did it by beating Rosburg when the pressure was on.

The end was pure frustration for Rosburg, who led after both the first and third rounds. He fired scores of 67-74-67-74, setting and tying the record at the new 7,000-yard Lakewood Country Club course.

After his 74 round Saturday, he bitterly denounced the behavior of the huge galleries. After yesterday's 74 he quickly disappeared from both the presentation ceremonies and from newsmen.

The final count was Wininger 279, Rosburg and Tony Lema 282 for $3,050 each, and Jacket Cupit and Doug Sanders 283 for $2,050 each.

The New Orleans invitational remained one of those rare tournaments that has never been won by either Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer. Player finished fifth, five strokes back; Nicklaus eighth, nine strokes back; and Palmer 14th, 11 strokes behind Wininger.

Player still picked up $1,700 to run his leading money total to $20,602 for the year.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Colonel Browning, Wife To Be Honored At Farewell Dinner

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

To honor Col. Levi Browning, (he is retiring from the service), and his wife, Maj. Gen. Mervyn Magee and Mrs. Magee are giving a farewell dinner party Friday night for 16 guests at their home at Hamilton Air Force Base. General Magee is regional commander of 28th NORAD, an air defense body. Colonel Browning and his wife are going to Alaska where he will assume the position of health commissioner. Among the Marin guests and not officers at HAFB will be Col. Charles B. Overacker (rtd.) and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enemark and Mr. and Mrs. F. Harold Schutte.

MRS. WILLIAM A. LEWIS of San Rafael has been named one of the six chairmen of the San Francisco Bay Area for the James M. Wood Learning Center, now under construction at Stephens College, Mo. Stephens College had 1780 students from all 50 states, plus 14 foreign countries. Two hundred thirty students are from California. Mrs. Lewis will assist in conducting a solicitation campaign for the college.

THE ALBERT HARTIGS, seven year residents of Little Reed Heights, are about to pull up stakes and move to Springtown, a new active retirement city being built at Livermore. They have sold their home and will move on June 1, meanwhile occupying a Lucas Valley home for the intervening months.

The Hartigs are enthused about the move. Residents are coming from all over the country, attracted by the recreational facilities and comfortable homes. Mrs. Hartig reports there will be three swimming pools and an arts and crafts center and their home will border on the golf course. An added attraction is that the Hartigs will be close to their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. George Jewett, and three grandchildren who live in Livermore.

Their other daughter, Helen, who has been attending Pacific University in Forest Grove, Ore., will join them this summer and work for the Livermore Recreation Department.

Mr. Hartig, an accountant, retired last May.

Mrs. Hartig was honored at a farewell party given recently by Mesdames Gordon Darnell and John Maxson. She was presented with a gift for her new home.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN KAMPMEYER Jr. of Hawthorne Terrace, Tiburon, and their two children, Lisa and John, recently entertained Mr. Kampmeyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Kampmeyer of Sioux City, Iowa, for three weeks. The senior Kampmeyers are now in Hawaii and will stay there for a two week vacation. On their return they will stay one more week with their son and his family before returning east.

A MISCELLANEOUS bridal shower was given recently in honor of newly married Mrs. Charles Robin Dornbach (Joyce Simonian) of Santa Rosa. The hostess was Mrs. John A. Cleaveland of Kentfield. The shower was held at the home of Mrs. F. M. Cleaveland Jr. of Mill Valley. Many high school and college friends attended the shower for the new Mrs. Dornbach.

Joyce and Charles were married in November, and are residing in Santa Rosa where Charles is attending college. Joyce is teaching school there. Both are originally from the Belvedere-Tiburon area.

Body Beautiful's Just A Machine

CHICAGO (UPI)—A University of Illinois safety specialist says the body is a mechanical system of levers and hinges moved by "cables" just like many machines.

Each bone, joint and muscle has a specific purpose, and over-loading or using improperly invites injuries, said O. L. Hogsett.

If you or your husband do any lifting, such as rearranging furniture, lifting feed in the barn, or piling things on the truck, Hogsett recommends these precautions:

—Get close to the object to be lifted, and keep a firm footing on the floor or ground.

—Get a secure hold. Don't try to pick up more than you can control.

—Be sure you have a clear view of where you are going.

—Always bend your knees and keep your back straight when lifting. Push yourself up with the muscles in your legs, not in your back.

—Use simple and safe mechanical aids, such as rope hoists, wooden skids, hand trucks or inexpensive conveyors.

MORE AND MORE the State Department's Protocol Office is counting on Lady Bird Johnson to act as a key hostess for the wives of visiting heads of state while they are in Washington.

PRETTIER EVERY DAY

Lady Bird Setting New Pace With Her Warm, Human Touch

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the vice president, is setting a pace for herself reminiscent in some ways of the late Eleanor Roosevelt.

In the days ahead, for example, she will visit depressed area projects in West Virginia, speak to numerous women's groups, and go politicking with her husband.

In elite and affluent Washington circles, official wives are apt to forget the less fortunate people in other areas. But Lady Bird Johnson remembered them Friday when she visited projects at Charleston, W.Va., to retrain jobless coal miners and help bolster the state's economy.

SHE HAS BROUGHT a warm and human touch to the Kennedy new frontier. Though her knees knock with stage fright at times, she forces herself to accept many of the speaking invitations that pour in on her.

"I don't think of myself as a speaker," she said, "and as soon as they hear me, they don't think so either!"

Her philosophy is that "for 25 or 26 years I've been on the other end asking people (mostly voters) to do things for Lyndon and the party."

"Now," she explained, "I feel I have an obligation to them."

LADY BIRD SEEMS to get prettier every day. Her black hair is always smartly coiffured. Her clothes have a simple elegance. She keeps trim and still speaks with a charming Texas drawl. And when President and Senora Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela visited the President recently, she addressed them in Spanish.

She had to set her own pattern as the No. 2 woman in the land. As a senator's wife, she had known her predecessor, Pat Nixon, very well, and Mrs. Nixon promised to give her some pointers on the role. But they never managed to get together.

THE DEMANDS ON her time are heavy. She is often a pinch-hitter for First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy at White House ceremonies. And the State Department's Protocol Office is counting on her more and more as a key hostess for the wives of visiting heads of state.

Lady Bird has traveled twice around the world with the vice president, making official stops in 15 countries and enrolling thousands of friends for the United States.

On Tuesdays, in her Red Cross uniform, she gets together with senate wives on Capitol Hill to roll bandages, knit and gossip.

NOW 49, SHE has the energy and youth to keep studying Spanish and to go dancing with her husband. She also confesses that she likes to play hookey. Recently she took her two daughters, Lynda Bird, 18, a freshman at the University of Texas, and Lucy Baines, 15, to New York for theater-going and shopping.

What she misses most in all the official hubbub is "a little quiet time for thinking."

Mrs. Johnson has kept her naturalness and friendliness in the limelight. People stop her on the street and say, "Aren't you Lady Bird." She also meets up with Texans in remote parts of the world.

HER FRENCH CHATEAU-style home once belonged to hostess with the mostest, Perle Mesta, a close friend. But Lady Bird has added some Western ranch style touches that remind all comers that Texans live there. Her first act on moving into the lavish home with a swimming pool was to change the names from "Les Ormes" to "The Elms."

Three women give Lady Bird the helping hand she needs to keep up with her strenuous schedule. They are Elizabeth Carpenter, a dynamic assistant; her personal secretary, Bess Abell, and her cook, Zephyr, whose okra pickles, spicy cheese rounds and other goodies are renowned among the Johnson guests.

RUNNING A HOUSEHOLD takes much thought and time from the 49-year-old "Second Lady." Here she plans the menu for a formal dinner party with her cook, Zephyr, whose Okra pickles, spicy cheese rounds and such are renowned among the Johnson guests. (UPI Telephotos)

THE PARENTS' CORNER

Supervised Study Is Thought To Be Superior To Homework

Both as a father and an educator, I am against homework. I believe supervised study at school is far better. But I know I am crying in the wilderness. Homework is here to stay.

What can we do to make our youngsters' home study more effective? Here are a few tips I've found successful in the Barbour family.

Give your young students a quiet place to work without interruption. It can be a dining table, or a card table set up in a bedroom. Turn off the TV unless it's out of earshot, no matter how much your teenager protests that it doesn't bother him.

Insist that homework be done on schedule. Set aside certain hours exclusively for this work, and see that it is started on time. Don't weaken. Try not to let your children get behind. Buy good reference books. They're a solid investment for the whole family. Let your students look up their answers. Give brief help if necessary, but avoid the temptation to do any part of the work yourself. Try not to interrupt. Let the child speak first.

Some slow learners benefit from spelling and arithmetic drills at home. Talk to your child's teacher if you believe you can help him in this way. She'll tell you the best way to reach your goal. Homework is hard on parents, too. I hope we survive!

(Q) Do you approve of flunking kids in the early grades?"

(A) Children who fail in school have been studied by the thousands. Results of these studies seem to indicate that repeating a grade is rarely successful. Youngsters learn very little the second time around, and many would have been better off had they been promoted instead of failed. Perhaps some kids have to be flunked, but I am more concerned with preventing failure before it gets to the flunking stage.

'Viva Vina' Theme For View Show

"Viva Vina" will express the gay mood of "Fashions With a Viewpoint" on Thursday at the Ondine in Sausalito for the luncheon salute to Vina Del Mar, Chile, the sister city of Sausalito.

Native Chilean songs by Sonia Fuenzalida accompanied on the guitar by Ernesto Esckuche will introduce the 12:30 p.m. luncheon which welcomes as the guest-of-honor, Mrs. Manuel Tello, wife of the Consul General of Chile in San Francisco. Hostessing the table in honor of Mrs. Tello will be Mrs. Paul Micou, wife of the mayor of Sausalito and Mrs. M. Justin Herman, co-chairman of "Salute to Vina Week."

The paintings of a talented Chilean, Manuel Huidobro, will form the backdrop for Chilean costumes and 1963 fashions modeled by Mesdames Herman Feutsch, William Donohoe, and Richard Evans.

Lone Shopper Spends More

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two's company but the lone shopper buys more, whether the loner is male or female, says a supermarket trade publication.

The average American housewife takes her husband with her one out of two times that she markets, said Progressive Grocer. She markets 3 times weekly, spends 27 minutes to buy 21 items for a total of $7.74.

The husband braves it alone 1 time in 7," added the magazine. "The supermarket prefers the lone husband since he generally lacks the will to stick to the average 13.7 items his wife lists and spends 15 per cent more than she would have."

Supermarkets also like to see a housewife shop without her children, the report said. She takes 15 minutes longer, and spends more. She also saves the store the expense of replacing equipment and merchandise damaged by youngsters. Moppet mayhem costs a store $3,700 a year, the report added.

Cost Of Working

WASHINGTON (UPI)—About 40 per cent of the gross earnings of a group of working wives in Ohio were spent on job-related expenses, a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey indicated.

The expenditures included higher income taxes brought about by the wife's earnings.

Slim Victuals Yield More Joy Say Statisticians Weighing Food

NEW YORK (UPI)—American food consumers are eating less now but enjoying it more than they did 50 years ago.

Diners in 1961 digested, on an average, about threequarters of a ton of food, some nine per cent less than the diner of the "Gay Nineties" era.

A joint dietician-statistician survey discloses the average person in 1961 consumed 1,455 pounds of food (retail weight), or 140 pounds less per person than in the early 1900's.

THE NEED for fewer calories in an urbanized society and modern methods of food processing have been key factors in shaping sharp changes in the American eating pattern.

With a wider variety of foods available, consumers can be choosier now in selecting items providing greater nutrients in the fewer pounds purchased.

Striking changes have taken place within each of the major food groups, reported Roger Murphy, economist in marketing, with the New York State Extension Service.

THE EMPHASIS today is on livestock products as opposed to agricultural crop products years ago. Use of meat, poultry and dairy products has gained; use of cereals and potatoes — both white and sweet — has dropped.

Beef — particularly since World War II — has become the No. 1 item on the American dinner table. Rising income has made possible purchases of more beef, which now far exceed the combined consumption of pork, veal and lamb.

Ten years ago, pork ran neck-and-neck with beef for consumer preference. After 1953, beef took the lead and has held it since. Of the 132 pounds (retail weight) of red meat consumed per capita in 1961, the beef proportion was 70 pounds; pork 40 pounds, veal and lamb five pounds each.

FARM FAMILIES typically produce more pork than beef for home use. As the farm population has declined, so has the use of pork, the Murphy survey noted.

Other sidelights on the consumer table:

Use of chicken and turkey has increased sharply since the 1930's. In 1961, per capita chicken consumption averaged 30 pounds and 8 pounds of turkey.

Egg consumption has seesawed. Consumption now is better than 50 years ago, but shows a dip since the immediate post-war period.

But Americans are not a nation of fish eaters. Fish consumption per person in 1961 was the same as in the early 1900's.

USE OF dairy products, particularly those high in nonfat solids, has increased over the years. More nonfat dry milk and cottage cheese are used now, but less fluid whole milk and cream than formerly.

A shift from fresh fruits and vegetables has been offset by a widespread use of canned and frozen items. Also citrus fruit has become prominent in the everyday diet.

The use of potatoes dropped from the 1900's until 1952, when the impact of processed potato products reversed the downward trend.

USE OF flour and other cereal products has dropped greatly in the past half century, partly because the housewife bakes less at home. The change from buying flour for home baking has been offset by increased purchases of flour in processed foods, such as mixes.

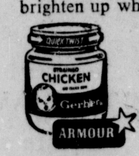
Bringing Up Baby®

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

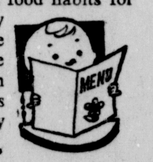
Even the most contented babies are sometimes beset by end-of-the-day crankiness. These out-of-sorts spells are often as much the result of boredom as of fatigue. A mother I know cures these cross-patch spells by providing a special social hour for her baby. There may be a game of peek-a-boo, a bit of knee dandling, a merry song or two. Another time there'll be a mother-baby gab-fest (any words or coos will do) or a 3-way romp with dad. Amazing how these family circle doings chase baby blues.

More cheer-up strategy. Babies brighten up when supper features a succulent Gerber Strained Meat, like Chicken, Beef or Ham. (Just 3 of 9 delightful varieties.) That's because the savory true-meat flavors have special baby-appeal. Made from selected Armour cuts, these quality meats are specially processed to remove most of the fat. For baby's nutritional build-up, Gerber Meats are high in protein . . . the big contributor to growth and muscle development.



P.S. Gerber Meats are famous for an exceptionally smooth, moist texture.

Note from the Gerber nutritionist: "Serving your baby many kinds of vegetables and fruits helps build good food habits for future years. They provide a wide variety of taste experiences when food acceptances are most easily established."



Memo from Dan Gerber. "One of the continuing projects in our Agricultural Research program is exhaustive experimentation with vegetable varieties to find those with the highest nutritive values . . . the best flavor and color. Take Gerber Sweet Potatoes. A seven-year experiment with several sweet potato varieties resulted in the development of two special Gerber varieties which have considerably more vitamin-A value and appreciably more vitamin C than ordinary sweet potatoes. Also superior color and flavor." Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Survey Shows Dining Room Again Included In Homes

CHICAGO (UPI) — A survey compiled by the U.S. Housing and Home Finance Agency shows that the dining room again is being included in new homes.

One of the first rooms to be scratched off blueprints when building costs began to rise after World War II, the dining room is returning because of consumer demand, builders said.

Until recently, most families in the middle and lower income brackets had to look for older homes if they wanted separate dining areas. In the newer models, meals were served in the kitchen or a "dining nook area" somewhere between the kitchen and another room.

Building costs have not gone down, said the builders, but the new interest in dining rooms probably came about because of the big success of the "raised ranch" or "split ranch" style house.

This style is very economical to build — a simple rectangle, with two stories, the lower one half below grade. It provides twice the square footage of living space of a ranch style home, at not much more cost, so it has space for a dining room.

Why do buyers want a separate dining room?

Bernard L. Copeland, president, a manufacturer of dining furniture, points to the resurgence of the traditional trend.

Copeland's firm participated in the survey that showed more than half of all families interviewed wanted separate dining facilities.

He said the family may be satisfied with informal meals in the kitchen, but it likes to have a more formal place to entertain at mealtime.

Families with children also believe the formal atmosphere of a dining room is conducive to better table manners, Copeland said.

Storage space was another reason cited. Silver, table linens, dishes and glassware can be stored in a buffet, which rarely fits comfortably in the living room or kitchen, Copeland said.

Copeland said a recent survey by Home Furnishings Daily, a trade publication, showed sales of dining sets up as much as 17 per cent over a year ago. Sales were higher in suburban rather than city areas. he said, reflecting purchases of new homes.

Persuasive Appetizer

ALL MEN WILL BE RED MEN

When you see a sartorial man next fall you're going to see red, for that's the color that sports manufacturers for mens and boys wear expect to use lavishly.

Red will show up in tailored clothing as an accent, but a new deep wine shade called oxblood will be used most in solids and patterns.

Men you certainly won't miss are those who will wear a fireman's red called tartan which is to appear in woolen blazer jackets. A rich cherry red called Red Brigade and still another cranberry shade named Firebrand are also brightening up the men's fashion picture for fall.

Schools Behind? Will Be Subject For Lynwood Meet

"Are California Schools Behind?" will be the program at the Lynwood School Parent-Teacher Assn. meeting in Novato from 8 to 9:30 p.m., Thursday.

Ralph Giovanniello, superintendent of the San Jose Elementary School District and Red Newton, principal of the San Jose Intermediate School, will be the featured speakers.

Date Pastel Salad

Sliver fresh California dates and combine with shredded cabbage, mandarin oranges and pineapple chunks for a refreshing and colorful salad. Chill and toss lightly with French dressing, mayonnaise or sour cream.

GREY-WASH BLUES?

Bothered by dull looking tattle-tale grey? It comes from deposits of hangover detergent and soil residue left in by ordinary washing and rinsing. These deposits can't be removed by using ordinary packaged water softeners or tank-type softeners. But add CALGON® water conditioner to water. Grey's gone! Pocketbook Pained As Health Costs Rise

NEW YORK (UPI)—The yearly pain in the pocketbook for health care needs ranges from $300 for a family in Atlanta to more than $400 per family in New York.

The Health Insurance Institute, reporting the statistics, noted further that health care costs now account for from 5.3 to 6.9 per cent of the average big city family's cost-of-living.

The institute said health care a decade ago accounted for from 4.6 to 5.8 per cent of living expenses.

The institute's report is based on new data on how families in seven large metropolitan areas spend their take-home pay. The information was collected by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Though health care costs have gone up, the institute found the most significant shift upward in the trend of family spending has been for automobile purchase and operation.

In the seven metropolitan areas — Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York, San Francisco and Washington, D. C.—the family auto now accounts for an average of 12.5 per cent of all expenditures, compared to 9.4 per cent 10 years ago.

James R. Williams, institute general manager, said the survey depicted in dollars and cents the extent of the increasing demands of a prosperous people for more of the better type of medical and dental services currently available.

In Boston, for example, health care per family was $180 a year in 1950; in 1960 (the survey year), the average was $321.

In Washington, health care went from $205 per family per year to $339 in 1960. In Detroit, $198 a year was spent on health care in 1948; during the survey year, $367 was spent on this item.

In Chicago, $232 went for health care per family during the year 1950. A decade later, the health care bill was $367. In San Francisco, the bill was $235 in 1950. By 1960, the bill increased to $393.

Williams said families can avoid the risk of shattered finances from health care bills by following these tips:

—Budget for the regular and predictable costs.

—Have insurance for the big bills, or for accumulation of smaller, unpredictable bills, and against the hazard of loss of income due to disability.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

All Obese Individuals Overweight; All Overweight People Not Obese

VAN DELLEN

All obese individuals are overweight but only a small percentage of overweight persons are obese. Anyone who is more than 20 per cent over the desirable weight is said to be obese.

Overeating is responsible for excess poundage, but there are numerous reasons why these men and women eat too much. The personality, way of living, and eating habits all play important roles.

WHAT ABOUT calories? Studies at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago have demonstrated that eating habits are most important, Dr. Clarence Cohn and Dr. M. David Allweiss fed two groups of laboratory animals identical diets containing the same number of calories.

One group was given all the food at one time; in another, it was doled out gradually, so that the animals were nibbling throughout the day. The nibblers did not gain weight whereas those given one large meal a day gained considerably. These investigators may have something and early studies on man show weight loss is possible with this method of eating. In addition, the cholesterol in the blood tends to be lower via this method of eating.

THE EMOTIONAL aspects of eating play a greater role in the obese. Some gorge because of tension; others, to obtain solace from intolerable life situations. The added flesh provides the portly person with the ammunition to deal with his personal conflicts, including the rejection of certain individuals or sitiuations.

The psychological conflicts may be so deep-seated, the man or woman becomes unhappy when losing weight. Some develop serious phychiatric problems.

FOR THIS reason, the wise physician goes into the emotional background of the truly obese before recommending a diet. He avoids rigid, uncompromising reduction programs. In addition, the obese person may be disillusioned when his basic difficulties persist after losing 50 pounds, especially if stoutness was blamed for social ostracism or discrimination.

It has been suggested that the feeling of well-being produced by weight-reducing pills is responsible for their effectiveness. This is in contrast to the belief that these amphetamine products suppress appetite. Mr. Fatso turns his thinking from the table to more productive pursuits.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

FOOD OR DRUGS?

J. C. writes: Are vitamin and mineral formulas considered supplemental foods or drugs?

REPLY

Food supplements, when taken daily or used to supplement a lopsided diet. Some vitamins are used as remedies and can be considered drugs; an example is the use of large doses of niacin to lower the cholesterol level or for dizziness, associated with Meniere's syndrome.

REDUCING PILLS

B. A. writes: What do reducing pills contain?

REPLY

The majority contain an amphetamine that lessens appetite. These drugs also have a stimulating effect and make some persons jittery. The appetite suppressing effects usually disappear after a few weeks.

BURNING SCALP

R. L. writes: I had a permanent wave two weeks ago and ever since, my scalp burns and itches. Please tell me why?

REPLY

You may be allergic to one of the chemicals used in giving the wave.

POUNDING TEMPLES

A. F. writes: What could cause a pounding pressure in both temples?

REPLY

Tension headache is a good possibility.

Jurges Signs Eight

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Jurges has signed eight youngsters from the Maryland, Virginia and Carolinas as a scout for the Houston Colts.

The former Red Sox manager and star National League shortstop is high on Sonny Jackson, 17, a shortstop from Silver Springs, Md.

"He's a real good shortstop with speed," says Jurges. "The only question is his hitting. Paul Richards (Houston general manager) helped me sign him because the Yankees liked him, and almost had him."

Jackson is a Negro whom Jurges scouted for two years.

It Wouldn't Take Long

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Buzz Nutter, center for the Pittsburgh Steelers, was reminded of the time has was playing for the old Dallas Texans in a National Football League game against the Chicago Bears at Akron, Ohio.

"The temperature was about 14 below," says Nutter. "With only a few hundred fans present Coach Jimmy Phelan of the Texans suggested that, instead of introducing the starting lineups, the players go into the stands and shake hands with everyone."

Failure Of Family Circle 'Alarming'

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—To one expert on mental health it is disturbing to know that in some families children are not kissed and "although words are still used, the affectionate interchange and din of spirited conversation has disappeared."

What a pity—this disruption of the family circle by the attractions of our technical age, said Dr. Joost A. M. Meerloo. But "what a challenge to mental hygiene to repair the family circle, this lost source of inner strength!"

As he blamed people's misuse of television, radio and the other current preoccupations which interfere with family relationships, he also blamed the public's misin terpretations of psychiatric-psychological science.

First, mothers were being blamed for the emotional ills of their children because they were too dominating. Then fathers were blamed on the grounds they either were weak or heavy-handed. "Later," he continued, "the catchword of 'togetherness' arose to cover up the looser family ties.

"Quite paradoxically, modern psychology has unwittingly promoted emotional turmoil in the home through precocious popularizing of psychological concepts. Blaming one of the parents had become the great mode of popular psychological thinking.

"I know parents who with limited knowledge of psychology and as a form of counter-blaming, want to use the family situation as a continual therapeutic relation in order to change the other mate but never themselves. I do not have to say that this psychological coercion happens at the cost of mutual goodwill and tolerance."

The psychologically unskilled, whether acting as professionals or amateurs, are unaware of a governing psychological truth. This, he said, "is the collective urge of the family to be an unthreatened self-sufficient unit." It is expressed in the ancient motto, "My home is my castle."

Both father and mother are indispensable in a sound family circle, he went on. Father's authority and discipline help children's formative minds to develop soundly; mother's training "checks antagonism, hostility and sibling rivalry and changes destructive tendencies into constructive ones.

"When the family ties break down, the child has to build up his own adaptive strategy and pull up his mental defenses by their own bootstraps. When he is left all alone in the confusing business of which ethics and morals to select, he often becomes hostile and delinquent. It is as simple as that!"

With all modern disruptive influences considered, "blaming the parents who live in the same confusing world as we, has been one of the worst underminers of family life since it increased their feelings of insecurity."

Meerloo was lecturing at a meeting of the New York Mental Health Institute.

Indian Population Crisis Is Nearing

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India may pass her population point of no return by the end of her third five-year development plan in 1966, according to observers.

With her 440 million inhabitants (1961 census), India ranks second in population and seventh in land area in the world. The Indian subcontinent now supports 15 per cent of the world's total population.

The strain that this explosive population growth has put on food resources worries planners. Former census registrar R. A. Gopalaswami placed food grains requirements for a population of 520 million at a minimum of 108 million tons per year.

Allowing for a population of 480 million by 1966, a Ford Foundation agricultural production team, reporting in 1959, fixed a 100 to 110 million tons requirement of food grains. The team warned that on the basis of a 3.2 per cent yearly rate of increase recorded between 1952 and 1959, the annual gap between supply and demand as of 1966 would be 28 million tons.

Edgar T. Hoover and Ansley J. Coale of the Ford Foundation team commented: "No conceivable program of imports or rationing could meet a crisis of this magnitude." The team indicated that even a downward trend in the birth rate beginning as soon as 1966 may be too late to permit increased living standards.

India's birth rate during the second development plan period (1956-1961) was 40.7 per 1,000, against a death rate of 21.6 per 1,000.

The director of the Indian Institute of Population Studies, Dr. Sripati Chandrasekhar, said recently on the All India Radio: "If all the health projects contained in India's third (development) plan are completed, the 21.6 per 1,000 death rate will register even a further decline.

"While this may be extremely welcome from the humanitarian point of view, it is estimated—India's population can reach the unmanageable figure of 520 million by 1971."

The increase in India's population has been phenomenal. Between 1871 — when the first rather incomplete census was taken—and 1921, the population in the country increased from 214 to 248 million, a rather small increase for half a century.

But between 1921 and 1951, more than 100 millions were added to the population.

While the decisive factor behind the explosion is the decline in India's death rate there are other significant socio-economic reasons that account for the tremendous increase.

Almost everyone in India, sooner or later, usually sooner, gets married.

Marriage is not merely a social institution but a semi-religious duty in the country. Hindus believe girls should be married before puberty. The necessity of having a son to perform the "Shradha" (purification of the dead by means of offering sacred water and food to fire) ceremony at the funeral of the father, thereby assuring his salvation, also helps explain the universality of parenthood among Hindus.

Although the Sarda act banning child marriages was passed in 1929, millions of girls continue to marry early. In the rural areas nearly 80 per cent of all teen-agers are married.

It is not uncommon in some of the remote countryside areas to see a rustic bridegroom bringing home a "baby bride" along with a basket full of dolls, rattles and other toys, apparently meant to provide entertainment for the young lady of the house.

Also to be reckoned with is the absence of any effective, widespread family planning among the rural population who constitute about 82 per cent of the total population. Birth control, even in the urban areas, is of recent origin.

Realization of the urgency of the problem is evident from the provision of 270 million rupees ($56.7 million) for family planning in the third plan period.

Marinite Graduates

William Herbert Monti of San Rafael was graduated from Washington State University at the end of the first semester with a provisional teaching certificate.

Career Began In Russ Navy, Ends In Marin

A San Rafael resident has retired from a career at sea which began as a watch officer on a Russian Czarist destroyer and ended as master in the Military Sea Transportation Service.

George A. Sokoloff of 25 St. Francis Lane was also a gunnery officer on two Russian battleships and captain of two destroyers before fleeing to Yugoslavia in 1921 as a refugee from the Communists and making his way to the United States.

Sokoloff, born in Moscow in 1892, attended the Cadet Corps and Military Academy in that city and graduated in 1911 as a lieutenant. He graduated from the St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) Naval Academy in 1913 as an ensign in the Russian Navy.

After serving assignments on the four Russian ships, cruising the Black and White seas and the Arctic Ocean, Sokoloff arrived in San Francisco two years after he escaped from Russia, which had been taken over by the Soviet government.

Sokoloff sailed on different ships until 1929 when he took a job as night watchman in a San Francisco office building. For the next 10 years, while he held the watchman's job, he attended Heald Engineering School, graduating in 1939 with a degree in civil engineering.

That same year he became a United States citizen and joined the Army Transportation Service. His transfer to the Military Sea Transportation Service in 1950 made him one of the original members of that organization which provides sea transportation for personnel and cargoes of the armed forces.

During his career in the service he rose from the rank of second officer to master. On his retirement, marked by ceremonies held last week in San Francisco, Sokoloff's last post was master of the USNS Merrell.

Fears That U.S. Trade Muscles Are Weakening May Be Overdone

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam may have much stronger trade muscles than some doubters at home and abroad have been saying. The European Common Market's challenge has awed many. The farther-off threat of the Communist bloc impresses others.

Starting at a low base after World War II the industrial growth of these new boys on the bloc has been striking. It has been dramatized by the shrinking since 1957 of the U.S. gold reserves as foreigners turned in their once sought-after dollars for the metal.

But the fears that Uncle Sam is in a dangerous situation may have been overdone, the National Bureau of Economic Research suggests. The private nonprofit organization that studies and interprets economic facts says that today's problems are far from insoluble—and perhaps can be met without any extreme measures.

The study called "The United States as World Trader and Banker" notes that American exports have been growing faster than imports, making for a very healthy trade balance. The study covers the last 10 years, rather than the last few months when the growth pattern was reversed, perhaps temporarily.

Hal B. Lary, associate director of research of the bureau, feels many Americans have lost sight of this underlying trading strength in their fear that the U.S. competitive power was weakening. The fear was sharpened in 1960 and 1961 by the heavy outflow of liquid capital to prospering Europe where interest rates were higher, and by an erosion in the U.S. gold reserve.

But American exports continued to hold well above imports, giving this country a favorable trade balance the bureau figures at more than seven billion dollars a year of late, compared with four billion 10 years ago.

The trouble has been that other outflow of dollars—military spending overseas, foreign aid, investments abroad, and the like — have grown, too, and still top the trade balance, so that we run a deficit in payments.

The bureau says this problem must be met, but it thinks the competitive strength of the United States can be increased by attention to its export potential. Some of the financial drain, such as the outflow of capital, may prove to be temporary and due to passing conditions.

At home the study suggests the aim should be "achieving greater freedom from external restraint in the pursuit of economic stability, long-term growth of output, and higher employment."

It calls too pessimistic the view that these can't be achieved without damage to the dollar's foreign exchange value.

The problems are tough. But the study notes that in the last two years U.S. prices have been getting more competitive, helped by the fact that labor costs per unit of output have been fairly steady here since 1957 while they have been rising elsewhere.

Globe-Trotting Mill Valley Family Settling Once Again

A globe-trotting Mill Valley family will call Marin their home again for awhile as soon as engineer Neville G. Adams arrives Sunday by air from New Zealand.

His British-born wife, Eileen, and their two New Zealand-born daughters, Michelle Donna, 4, and Julie, 11 months, recently returned to their home at 395 Molino Avenue after a cruise to San Francisco aboard the P. & O. Orient liner Iberia.

The family had been in New Zealand for 16 months while Adams, employed by the Morrison-Knudsen Co., built a paper mill for the Tasman Pulp and Paper Co. at Kawerau, on the North Island.

"We've wandered around the world a good bit," said Mrs. Adams. "But we still like Northern California best as a place to live. We loved New Zealand, but we intend to make Mill Valley our permanent home."

Adams and his family went "down under" for the second time in November, 1961. Julie was born during their stay. Their older daughter was born in New Zealand during the couple's 1957-59 visit, when Adams spent two years engineering a steam plant.

The Adamses bought their home in Mill Valley for a base of operations in 1952.

The Adams' wanderings began during World War II, when he was stationed with the British Royal Navy in South Africa. After the war the couple decided to settle in the United States. They went to Los Angeles in 1948, and within a few days Adams had a job with Morrison-Knudsen. Almost immediately he was sent to Ceylon to help build the Galoya Dam. They spent two years there.

After establishing a home in Marin, Adams made several shorter trips abroad for his firm, and in 1955-56 the couple went to Soerabaya, Java, to build a cement plant for the Indonesian government as part of the American foreign aid program.

HOMEWARD BOUND—British-born Marinite Eileen Adams and her New Zealand-born daughters, Michelle (left) and Julie travel to San Francisco by ship, preceding engineer Neville Adams to their home at 395 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, after 16 months "down under."

Twenty of the 35 presidents of the U.S. wore military uniforms at some stage of their careers.

Sausalitan To Lead Therapy Institute

Also participating from Marin County in the conference will be Mrs. Elizabeth Hayes, child welfare services worker for the county public welfare department, who will head an institute on "Healthy Adolescence in Today's World."

Kayo Files Muslim Petition

Newly fledged attorney Patrick (Kayo) Hallinan, son of attorney Vincent Hallinan of Ross, has filed his first federal court action.

In the family tradition of battling for unpopular causes, young Hallinan demanded of San Francisco Federal Court yesterday that Muslim convicts in California state prisons be allowed to practice their faith.

Technically this is Mohammedanism although prison authorities have indicated conviction that the "Black Muslims'" have special points.

Hallinan's action was a habeas corpus petition on behalf of Filbert Ford, in San Quentin Prison, and William Bryant Mason, Los Angeles forger in Folsom Prison. Both are Negroes.

Ford is from San Francisco, has been in custody of the state Department of Correction since April 7, 1960, and has been at San Quentin since August 1962.

He was convicted of second degree burglary, carrying sentence of six months to 10 years, and grand theft with sentence of six months to 15 years, these sentences to run concurrently. Parole was denied last month.

Hallinan cited a ruling of the California State Supreme Court upholding a Department of Corrections rules forbidding Black Muslims to teach classes of worship in state prisons. He said a federal district court in Washington, D. C., has ruled that members of the sect must be allowed to practice their faith and teachings in state prisons.

Sewer Service Charge On Agenda

A sewer service charge for 1963 improvements will be discussed by Corte Madera sanitary district directors at 7:30 p.m. today at district headquarters, 500 Tamalpais Drive.

The charge, "substantially less than $2 for single family homes, would replace a tax increase of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation imposed last year.

Bids will be opened for new sewers for Redwood, Baltimore and Willow Avenues and Serra Street.

Ticket Agent Delaying French Family

An overdue reunion of San Rafael boat painter Paul Amouroux and his family from France, already delayed by finances and a minor illness of his small daughter, has been further held up by a Bordeaux ticket agent who has been withholding — apparently illegally — the family's visas and passports.

Budd Iseman, head of Budd's Travel and Tours in San Rafael, said today that if the French agent holds up the papers any longer, he'll tae the matter to the French consul.

Iseman's information has come through officials of Lufthansa Airlines, which has been trying to get the Amouroux family to Marin.

If the visas and passports are released, Amouroux's wife and two children should arrive at San Francisco International Airport at midnight Saturday, Iseman said.

Iseman learned Friday that the Bordeaux agent had been sitting on the papers because he allegedly had advanced about $100 to Mrs. Amouroux for travel and living expenses in January, when she originally had been scheduled to fly to the United States. To expedite matters, Iseman sent the money. Then he learned that the agent wanted another $50 to cover a check which Amouroux had sent him, but which hadn't cleared the banks yet. So Iseman sent that money and told Amouroux to stop payment on the check.

Iseman said he'll send no more money if the visas and passports are not released promptly; he'll send for the French consul.

Amouroux, separated for 16 months from his family, had been working at three jobs in an effort to raise money for their passage when his plight was brought to public attention Feb. 14 by a story in the Independent-Journal.

An anonymous San Rafael businessman promptly advanced the ticket money. But Amouroux's 4-year-old daughter caught a bad cold and couldn't travel.

County Planners Approve Rec Center For South San Rafael

Establishment of a South San Rafael recreation center for teen-agers was authorized yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Planning Commission on motion of Commissioner Edward K. Wachsman, who termed it a worthy project.

Edward Margoliash asked for use permit to turn the J. B. Rice Supply Co. building, near Marin headquarters of the California Higway Patrol and far from any liquor stores or bars, into a center to be operated on a membership basis.

The planning staff found that Margoliash had operated dances in Corte Madera and San Rafael, earning approval of chiefs of police in both cities. His plans include revocable membership cards and rules on such points as proper dress.

Approval was recommended with proviso that one deputy or other officer be required for each 100 persons or portion of that number. Under the building code the structure can accommodate 700, with adequate parking on three and one-half acres.

If chosen, as finalists the students will be eligible to receive tuition awards of up to $900 annually at the four-year college or university of their choice. Finalists will be named in April.
